5 Tom Harper

Clemson's Assistant Head Coach has been around his chosen profession for many years at many schools. The former Wake Forest Head Coach still enjoys his work and is held in high regard by his players, just ask Michael Dean Perry. Annabelle Vaughan profiles the dean of Clemson assistants.

7 Football Lifestyles

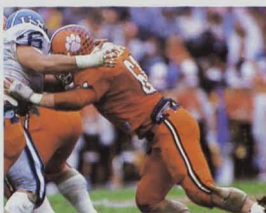

What do Clemson football players do with the rest of their time? Do they have any free time at all? Annabelle Vaughan interviewed a number of Tigers and put together a typical week in the life of a Clemson football player.

52 John Phillips

Clemson's Outland Trophy Candidate didn't even play offense until the middle of the 1985 season. Now he is regarded as one of the top offensive players in the nation and a high draft choice for the 1988 NFL draft. Willie Shearer takes a look at Phillips and also transcribed an interesting interview with the Tiger senior.

57 Clemson History

Clemson has had more ACC championship teams and more All-ACC players than any other school. The former Tigers dominate many games on Sundays in the NFL. National Champions and first round draft choices abound as Tim Bourret reviews Clemson football history in this eight-page centerpiece feature.

69 Wrestling Outlook

Eddie Griffin's team was beset by injuries most of last season. But the return of Kurt Howell and a fine recruiting class should make the Tigers an outstanding team in 1988. Sam Blackman takes a look at this year's wrestling team.

71 Terrance Herrington

Clemson's All-America middle distance runner has had to come back from a serious knee injury. Annabelle Vaughan reviews Terrance Herrington's career and his hopes for the Olympics.

81 Tiger Trainers

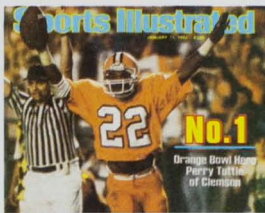

Many student organizations contribute to the operation of the Clemson football program. The student trainers work as hard as any organization, as James Fleming explains.

87 University Feature

Clemson researchers are making strides in the areas of biotechnology and genetic engineering. Holly Hatfield tells us about a grant Clemson has received from the Monsanto Corporation that could lead to some interesting discoveries.

88 Senior Spotlights

Throughout the season we have brought you features on various senior football players. Here is a story on some of the less publicized hard workers in Danny Ford's senior class of 1987.

115 Spirit Blitz

Today is the continuation of a new Clemson tradition. Willie Shearer tells us what will be taking place during today's Spirit Blitz game that shows Clemson's world renowned spirit.

116 Bengal Babes

A student group of 55 young women volunteer their time to the athletic department each fall. The Bengal Babes help recruit championship players each Saturday by hosting prospective Clemson football players. Sheri West tells us of their contributions to the Clemson program.

Today's Game

Treadwell's Kicks Have "Fatal Attraction"

Clemson place kicker David Treadwell's timely toe dealt doom to another foe (hey, that rhymes) last Saturday when his 30-yard field goal with 32 seconds remaining gave Clemson a 13-10 victory at North Carolina. Treadwell's kicks in the last few minutes have had a deadly attraction to the middle of the goalposts over his career. It marked the fifth time in the last three years that the original walk-on from Jacksonville, FL had booted a field goal inside the last 40 seconds of the game to give Clemson a win or a tie. It is safe to say that he is Clemson's and possibly the ACC's all-time clutch kicker.

Treadwell came to Clemson for its outstanding engineering program. The 3.1 student did not play high school football, soccer, England's answer to football, was his trademark. But, after some coaxing from his father, he tried out for the Clemson football team as a walk-on in 1983.

After a year of red-shirting and a year as an apprentice to the Tampa Bay Bucs' Donald Igwebuike, Treadwell burst on the scene with a game-winning field goal in his first college game. His 36-yard field goal at the buzzer beat Virginia Tech in the season opener for 1985.

He has continued to prove his last second heroics are no fluke. For his career he is 8-8 inside the last eight minutes of the fourth quarter, and six have directly affected the outcome of the game. If CBS and ABC had a college answer to the NFL's Fantastic Finishes, Treadwell could take up a season's worth of commercials by himself. Here is a list of his own fantastic finishes:

Year	Opponent	Dist	Time	Result
1985	Virginia Tech	36	:00	20-17 Win
1986	Georgia	46	:00	31-28 Win
1986	Maryland	21	:10	17-17 Tie
1986	S. Carolina	31	2:50	21-21 Tie
1987	Georgia	21	:02	21-20 Win
1987	N. Carolina	30	:32	13-10 Win

Treadwell's timely toe dealt doom to another Clemson foe.

Treadwell is a solid All-America candidate for 1987. In addition to his career accomplishments (46 field goals, second only to Obbed Ariri at Clemson) he is 17-20 for this season and leads the nation with 2.13 field goals per game. He is also the national leader in accuracy with an 85 percent mark (minimum of 20 attempts), and is eighth in the nation in scoring.

Perry Needs One Tackle for Loss

It seems fitting that Michael Dean Perry should break an all-time ACC record in the final appearance for the Perry family in Death Valley, Clemson's outstanding brother combination dominates the ACC record books when it comes to career and single season defensive categories.

Michael Dean needs just one tackle for loss against Maryland to become the league's all-time champion in that category. He has 60 at the moment, the same total William had in his four-year career. Michael Dean has had at least one tackle for loss in every game this season so it is a pretty good bet that the record will go by the boards this afternoon.

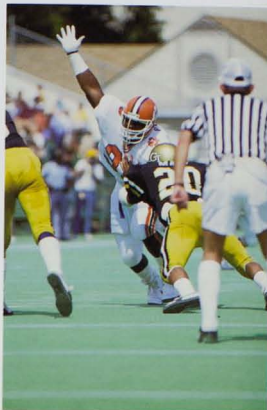

He also now has 23 tackles for loss for the season, just four away from William Perry's single season ACC tackle for loss record, and he needs just two sacks to break his brother's Clemson record for sacks in a season. Michael Dean had his ninth of the season in the first half of the North Carolina game and his brother (1984) and Jim Stuckey (1979) had 10 in a season.

It just won't seem the same next year for Clemson fans when a Perry is not in the lineup for the Tigers. Over the last seven seasons Clemson has been one of the top defensive teams in the nation and has picked up 59 wins, and the Perry brothers have certainly been two of the reasons for Clemson's success.

Tigers Look for Title

Clemson will be looking for its second consecutive and 10th overall outright ACC championship Saturday when the Tigers take on Maryland. It is once again fitting that Clemson is facing Maryland in the title clincher as the two teams have combined for each of the last six ACC championships. You have to go back to 1980 (North Carolina) to find the last time the Tigers or Terps failed to win the championship.

Clemson has actually clinched the ACC title with a win or tie against Maryland three of the last four times it has won the ACC title. In 1978 the Tigers won a battle of top 12 teams 28-24 at Maryland (see the Last Word on page 120 of this program). The national championship team rode a 270-yard passing day by Homer Jordan to the 1981 ACC title (21-7 at Clemson), and last season a David Treadwell field goal with 10 seconds left gave Clemson a 17-17 tie that clinched the championship. The 1982 Clemson team won the ACC with a victory over Wake Forest in Japan at the Mirage Bowl.

Perry needs one tackle for loss for another ACC record.

Clemson has more ACC titles than any other school with nine outright and one co-championship (1965).

Hats Off to the Seniors

This will be the final home appearance for 13 Clemson seniors. They have continued Clemson's outstanding tradition with four straight winning regular seasons, three bowl appearances and at least one (it could be two today) ACC championship. They have helped Clemson to 29 wins so far and that total could reach 32 by the time they hang up the orange uniforms for the last time.

Here is a list of Clemson seniors who will be performing in Death Valley for the last time today:

Randy Anderson	QB	Cowpens, SC
Robbie Chapman	C	Spartanburg, SC
Kevin Colley	WR	McCormick, SC
James Earle	OLB	Easley, SC

Bruce England	RB	Greenville, SC
Clay Gilstrap	DE	Smyrna, GA
Dan Pearnan	TE	Charlotte, NC
Michael Perry	DT	Aiken, SC
John Phillips	OG	Spruce Pine, NC
David Spry	C	Sanford, NC
Tony Stephens	MG	Walterboro, SC
Dave Treadwell	PK	Jacksonville, FL
Duane Walker	LB	Forest Park, GA

Clemson Punt Returns

Clemson needs just one punt return yard to break the school record for punt return yards in a season. The 1987 Tigers already have 634 yards in punt returns, tying the record set by the 1948 Clemson team. Clemson had two returns for 52 yards last week at North Carolina as James Lott and Donnell Woolford continue to be the top one-two punch in the nation in that category. Clemson is second in the nation in punt returns this year (Clemson has never been national champion in this category). The Tigers have 38 punt returns so far for the 634 yards, a 16.7 average per return.

Woolford has 17 returns for 301 yards, a 17.7 average, to rank first in the country, while Lott has 16 returns for 251 yards, a 15.7 average, which places him fifth in the nation. Clemson has never had two players finish the season ranked in the top five in the country in the same statistical category. Both have also had interceptions over the last two weeks and have combined for seven on the season.

Johnson Has Best Game

Clemson junior running back Tracy Johnson moved to the forefront of the all-conference race with 124 yards on 25 carries at North Carolina. It was a career high in attempts and yardage for Johnson, who is also an outstanding blocker. Johnson's previous high yardage game was 93 against Duke earlier this season.

He was the "go to guy" down the stretch as he carried the ball 11 times for 41 yards on Clemson's winning field goal drive, a true indication of his durability. Johnson is among the top 10 rushers in the ACC and he is second in the league in rushing touchdowns with six. He has been outstanding in short-yardage situations over the last two years. He has converted the first down on third or fourth down and two yards or less to go on 15 of 18 attempts this year and is 32 for 36 over the last two years.

Another interesting note on Johnson and the running backs centers around 100-yard games. This is the first season in Clemson history that four different backs have gone over 100 yards in a game over the course of the season. Wesley McCadden had 226 against Virginia Tech and 119 against Virginia, while Terry Allen had 183 in the Virginia game. Joe Henderson picked up 131 yards against Wake Forest, and then Johnson had his big game last Saturday.

The Official

CLEMSON TIGERS

By Annabelle Vaughan

If experience is really the best teacher, Tom Harper, Clemson's assistant head coach in charge of the defensive line, has learned his lessons well. He has been in the business for 31 years. He has coached high school football, college football, professional football ... he has even coached an armed forces football team. But no job has taught Tom Harper more about how to be a successful coach than the job from which he will never retire: Fatherhood.

As a coach, Harper is responsible for 10-15 of someone else's kids. As a father, he has three sons who have inherited their father's love for football. Harper's oldest son, T-Bird (Tom, Jr.), played college ball at Middle Tennessee until a knee injury forced him to give it up. J.C. plays for his dad as a defensive tackle for the Tigers. And Dude is just beginning his football career at D.W. Daniel High School in Clemson. The Harpers also have two daughters.

Harper has learned from having five children the importance of getting along and working together. He expects the same thing from his defensive linemen. "The secret is the guys playing together," said Harper. "We work on creating a 'we-ness' instead of individualism. I expect them to do what is best for the group, not for themselves."

Over the past two years, Harper has been blessed with talented players two and three-deep on the defensive line. In many situations this would have led to strife and discord, but not for this group.

Last year, Harper's starting nose guard, Brian Raber, began to help the third-string nose guard, Tony Stephens, who had just been moved over from the offensive line. Brian called his coaches' attention to Stephens, who eventually took his starting position. But Raber continued to help Stephens as he matured into an all-conference candidate. Stephens now credits Raber with his success and the two are good friends, almost like brothers.

Another time last season, Richard McCullough's mother came to Death Valley to see her son play for the first time. She had been sick for a while and made the trip all the way from Loris, S.C. Michael Dean Perry and Dwayne Meadows, both of whom started in front of Richard, asked that Richard be able to start that game. Richard did and had three tackles for loss and two sacks as the Tigers romped over Duke.

Harper's players don't rely on how much playing time they get to build their confidence. This is fortunate since none of the players played over 45% of the time last season. "We alternate our players not so that everyone can play," said Harper, "but to enhance each player's ability. Each player knows he can give it all he's got, without saving anything, and then someone will come in for a while and give his best too."

"I think we are probably the most envied unit on the team," said noseguard Tony Stephens. "Not because we're any better than anyone else, but because we get along so well. It took a lot of guts for Coach Harper to rotate three guys at each position last year. It just shows his respect for and confidence in his players. That kind of 'buddy system' also gave us the confidence to rely on each other and made us closer as a group."

It probably is not very difficult for Harper to think of his players as a sort of family when he looks down the line and sees his son J.C. in the trenches with the others. But on the football field, Harper doesn't feel any different towards J.C. than he does toward the rest of his players. "When I'm coaching, I feel the same way towards all my players as I do towards my son. And I don't have to worry about showing favoritism. Whoever is best will end up being first. The guys see to that. If he messes up, they won't let him play!"

Harper says it is easy for him to be compassionate toward his players. "I've had my kids go off to school away from me," he said, "so it's hard for me to turn my back on any of these guys. Having children of my own has really made me more compassionate as a coach."

As many of Harper's ex-players have been successful, he has gotten much satisfaction. He has coached five All-America defensive linemen, 19 all-conference players and 19 players he has coached have been drafted by the pros. But success in football is not all Harper is proud of.

"I am just as proud of one of my players who has gotten his degree as I am of one who is starting in the NFL," Harper said. "I hope that if one of my sons was playing for someone else, that their coach would feel the same way towards them."

Harper has been the mentor for both of the Perry brothers.

Football Lifestyles

By Annabelle Vaughan

Clemson fans love their Tigers. But the only time they get to see them is on Saturday afternoons. But have you ever wondered what they do all week? Have you wondered what it takes to prepare for Saturday? Just what is a football player's life really like?

For those of you who have wondered, here is what a week in a player's diary might look like. Annabelle Vaughan compiled this average week after interviewing a dozen Clemson players. Special thanks to James Earle and Ricardo Hooper. — Ed.

Sunday — Ahhh! I love Sundays. It's the only day of the week that we have time to ourselves. We can sleep late, go to church or do whatever we want to do. We eat brunch down at the Training Table when we get up. Today we had pancakes, eggs and bacon, fried chicken, rice and gravy, and vegetables and fruit — A typical Sunday meal in the good ole' South.

At 2:00, the shuttles start picking us up to head over to Jervay Athletic Center. The whole team meets together in a big conference room and Coach Ford talks to us about the game the day before. After that, we break up into meetings with our individual coaches to watch the films of the game. It's not too bad, especially if we won and I didn't make too many mistakes. The two meetings combined usually last a couple of hours. We can either lift weights before or after the meeting. I do mine before so I can eat supper as soon as I'm through. Meetings make me hungry and us football players need nourishment.

At 7:30, most of us walk to Study Hall. We stay there for two hours and try to get most of our studying done in that period. When we get out at 9:30, it's time for snacks. Tonight we had a light snack — pizza, cold cuts, chips. You know, a typical snack.

By now, it's almost 10:00. We have an hour and a half until curfew. Some guys like to just stay in their rooms and relax. Some go downstairs to the game room and shoot pool or play video games.

Monday — Sunday is over, so it's already time to start concentrating on next Saturday's game. I have an 8:00 class so my day starts early. Most of the guys have classes during the morning. I had a pretty good game Saturday so when I went to eat lunch, there were two reporters who wanted to talk to me. I had to rush to eat because I have a three-hour lab after lunch. Practice is scheduled late on Mondays and Thursdays so those are the days we sign up for labs. As soon as I got out of lab, I got on the shuttle and went to Jervay.

Getting ready for practice takes longer than you would expect. When all 100 of us have to get taped at the same time, you have to wait in line a while. We have to hurry to get ready for our meetings with our individual coaches, where we watch film of our next opponent. Next, the whole team meets and one of the coaches gives the scouting report for Saturday's game. We review each individual player.

We have a short practice in shorts and no pads and then hopefully, head back to the Dining Hall for our "Victory Meal". If we won last Saturday, we have either shrimp or crab legs or lobster and steak. The coaches eat with us and everybody is in a great mood.

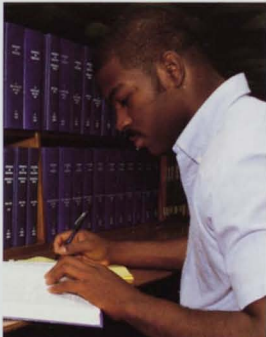

Almost everybody watches Monday Night Football. There was a crowd of us downstairs in the T.V. room tonight. It was a good game, but we had to miss the end of it because it wasn't over when curfew rolled around.

Tuesday — This is the worst day of the week. After a morning full of classes and a quick lunch, we go to Jervay to get ready for practice. After another meeting, we head out to the practice field behind the Athletic Center for two hours of hard practice in full pads. I don't really dread Tuesdays, but I think we all have to really get pumped for it so we can go out there and give it our all.

Everybody is dragging a little when we go back to dinner and to Study Hall. We had snacks again but I just brought some back to my room and went to sleep.

Wednesday — I twisted my ankle yesterday in practice so I had to get up at 5:30 a.m. and go to treatment. Our practice wasn't as rough today, because we did a good job yesterday. Usually on Wednesdays we work on our quickness and don't do as much hitting, but we still work out in pads.

I have a test tomorrow that I didn't finish studying for at Study Hall, but I had to go back to treatment at 9:30 p.m. and then study some more when I got back.

James Earle and the other Tigers must put in a full night of study after a rigorous Tuesday practice.

Thursday — Today was another lab day but I didn't have one. So, I did what most of the guys do when we have a couple of hours free — I took a nap!

At today's practice, we worked on getting quick and sharp. On Thursdays we try to fine-tune everything. Everything we do all week points to Saturday, but Thursdays are the day we try to make sure we have everything ready to play, both mentally and physically.

After supper and study hall, I packed my clothes for tomorrow and just relaxed with some of the guys. We talked about Saturday's game. I can tell everybody is starting to get pumped for it.

Friday — I am always so excited on Fridays I can hardly concentrate in my classes. But I have to make myself concentrate. If my grades get bad, I won't be able to play football.

After we eat lunch on Fridays, most of the guys try to get dressed up for the trip if we're playing an away game. After all, we're representing Clemson and we don't want to look like slob. We load the buses right in front of the dorm and head over to the stadium if we're playing a home game. There we change into shorts and T-shirts and have a minor workout on the field. We don't do much physical work, but we try to get mentally prepared.

We stay down the road a few miles in Anderson when we have a home game. Its nice because it gets us away from the distractions on campus and helps us concentrate on the game. We usually go see a movie, which is relaxing. Then we meet as a team, with no coaches and talk about the next day. Usually, some of the older guys stand up and say something. The tone of these meetings is pretty serious. It helps us all get in one frame of mind and really brings the team together.

Saturday — I can't believe it's here already. After breakfast, we have another meeting, offense in one room, defense in another. Then we break into positions and have a meeting with our individual coaches. Before we get in the buses and head back to Clemson, we get our ankles taped. I look pretty funny in a three-piece suit, dress shoes, and tape on my ankles!

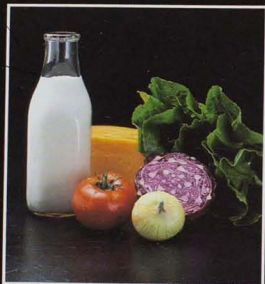

When we get to the stadium, we have a few minutes to walk around on the field if we want to and then we go in the locker rooms and get dressed. By this point, we can't think of anything but the game. We meet one more time as a team and Coach Ford leads us in the Lord's Prayer. Nobody says a word as we file out of the locker room and get on the buses. The ride around the stadium seems like it takes forever. There is no way to describe the way I feel when we gather at the top of the hill. It has to be the best feeling in the world. And then, well, you know what happens after that. As soon as that cannon goes off, everything we've done all week is worth it. I just hope I remember that on Monday morning!

Teaching: Still Number One

The more things change, the more they stay the same. At Clemson there are some things that (we hope) will never change: Clemson orange. Tillman Hall. Tigerama.

And one more very important thing. No matter how much the university grows, teaching will remain its most important role.

As a land grant institution, Clemson emphasizes the three areas of research, public service and teaching. On the brink of the 21st century, research efforts are unquestionably important. And public service programs serve all the citizens of South Carolina. But, over and above these missions, when a student enters Clemson, he or she should be able to count on receiving an excellent education. And great teaching doesn't happen without great teachers.

Every former Clemson student probably recalls a teacher whose personal style and commitment added a special dimension to the word "education." Maybe it was John Lane in English, Doug Bradbury in engineering, or one of the many others who are remembered with affection and appreciation. Their legacies remain long after graduation.

Administration and faculty are committed to the challenge of attracting and keeping outstanding teachers. In addition to the Master Teacher award and alumni professorships, the Faculty Senate last year recommended annual awards of $3,000 to outstanding faculty in each college to enhance scholarly activity related to teaching.

Not all great teaching occurs in the classroom. The awards for excellence in student journalism won by the Tiger staff, national and regional recognition for the Clemson Players, and a nationwide "widget" competition won by Clemson electrical and computer engineering students illustrate the value of learning environments outside the traditional lecture hall.

The College of Architecture tried a new approach to teaching this past spring.

During "Spring Week," students and faculty pursued independent study outside their usual areas. "Designer" birdhouses, hot-air ballooning and construction of an authentic Plains Indian tepee (with the assistance of a Comanche chief's descendants) were just a few of the projects. According to Dean James F. Barker, this was more than fun-and-games. "The goal was to give students and faculty a new perspective, to look at the education process and concentrate on learning to think rather than simply learning facts," he said.

Last year when the Carnegie Foundation's Report on the Status of Undergraduate Education found a nationwide lack of balance between teaching and research, Clemson reacted promptly.

The Faculty Senate and the Office of the Vice Provost for Undergraduate Studies formed committees to review Clemson's status in each area addressed by the report, including teaching, and a day-long faculty workshop explored the teaching/research balance specifically.

President Lennon made it clear when he announced the Second Century program. "Clemson has a long and proud tradition of undergraduate education," he said, "of preparing young people for the world in which they will live and work. This commitment to teaching is basic, firm and unshakable."

Students and faculty in the College of Architecture studied hot-air ballooning during Spring Week.

Take Time Out To See Clemson

When you come to Clemson for an exciting weekend of football, sometimes it's easy to take the Clemson area and all the things to do here for granted. But when you stop and think about it, there's plenty to see and do in Clemson the whole year round.

Rich history, a wonderful climate, beautiful Lake Hartwell and the scenic Blue Ridge Mountains provide the perfect backdrop for sightseeing, eating out, seeing a show, shopping, and an endless variety of outdoor activities.

You'll be comfortable during your stay. Accommodations in the area range from cozy nineteenth-century bed and breakfast inn to a variety of modern hotels. And area restaurants feature everything from upcountry cookin' to fine cosmopolitan cuisine.

So make plans to really see Clemson, during football season--or any other time of year. No matter what the season, we guarantee you'll want to come again.

President Lennon

On September 6, 1986, Clemson University formally inaugurated Dr. Max Lennon as the university's seventh president. The governor of South Carolina, the Honorable Richard W. Riley, spoke of a "quest for academic excellence which has never been more important than today," at the inauguration. He called Dr. Lennon, "the leader for the future of all South Carolina."

During his short time as president, Dr. Lennon has accomplished much, including the school's "Second Century Plan." This project, drawn up with help from faculty and state business leaders, emphasized research in agriculture, engineering, basic science, marketing, management, textiles and the quality of life; all these areas and several more were just a portion of a proposal to endure economic growth within the state.

It is the by-product of Lennon's overall attitude that Clemson is here to help its students to become successful and in general make the state a better place to live.

Dr. Lennon is a native of Columbus County, NC and earned his bachelor's degree in animal science from N.C. State in 1962. He also earned a doctorate in animal science from the same institution in 1970.

He had been at Ohio State for two years prior to his move to Clemson. He served as executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. Lennon was also on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and was co-chairman of the Governor's commission on agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the college of Agriculture and director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Missouri and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Lennon, who has also served as an assistant professor at Texas Tech and Missouri, spent two years with the International Agri-business firm Central Soya of Illinois. He also has participated in many national and international conferences concerning new technologies in agriculture.

The 46-year-old Lennon was chosen from about 200 candidates for the presidency at Clemson.

Lennon commented on his philosophies and goals for Clemson in his opening press conference. "I am extremely delighted to be chosen as the leader of this great institution. We're at an extremely important time in our lives, not because of circumstances but because of where we are in history. We need land-grant institutions in a way that is almost unique ... so we can continue to be competitive in a world market.

"We at Clemson University must make our own priorities to lead us into the 21st century. We must begin by making ourselves visible in the state, then we must focus on the global perspective of the university and what we can accomplish in that arena."

Board of Trustees President Louis P. Batson declared that the long selection process had discovered a man who knows what he wants. "Max Lennon is a good planner, a deep thinker, and a man ready for the challenge. He is restless without being impatient."

Lennon said the early part of his administration will consist of familiarizing himself more closely with Clemson's programs. "It would be presumptuous of me to come in here with a set of priorities," he said. "In the academic community you build on the strengths of the institution, and my first business has been learning about those strengths. I'll be calling for help from the students, faculty, administrators, alumni and the rest of the Clemson family to make sure our priorities are in order."

Lennon is active in many councils and commissions, including the American Society for the Advancement of Science; the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges and the National Dropout Prevention Fund.

Lennon began his teaching career at N.C. State in 1966 when he served as a graduate assistant professor. In 1970 he moved to Lubbock, TX, where he served as an assistant professor of animal science at Texas Tech University. He remained at the Texas institution as an assistant dean and associate dean in the College of Agriculture until 1980. On the first day of this decade he became the chairperson in the department of animal husbandry at the University of Missouri. He served as Dean of the College of Agriculture at Missouri until 1983, when he moved to Ohio State as vice president for agricultural administration.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon and they have two children, Daniel Ray (24) and Robin (22).

Max Lennon is in his second full academic year as Clemson President.

WE'RE GOOD GUYS.

As a South Carolina company, we're always a little surprised when people here don't know who we are or, perhaps, what we do. Maybe we've just been too quiet. At the risk of bragging, we'd like to point out that Chem-Nuclear is important to our state.

We provide a service that protects the health and safety of South Carolinians. Our facility in Barnwell County allows hospitals, research facilities, and electric utilities to use nuclear materials without damaging our environment.

All those organizations do vital work—but in doing so they produce wastes with low levels of radioactivity. Chem-Nuclear disposes of those wastes so that they will never create a hazard. In fact, we are so careful and our work is monitored so stringently that the air, water, and land around our facility have no more radioactivity than your own back yard.

When you use electricity, take medication, receive one of several lifesaving, high-tech medical treatments, or even read a newspaper, you benefit from a process that produces low level radioactive waste. Chem-Nuclear exists only to dispose of the waste created by our modern way of life. We're good guys.

Bobby Robinson

A successful athletic program is usually the result of many factors, the most important being a well qualified leader heading up the entire program. At Clemson, continued success in all facets of athletics is evidence of the quality of leadership that has been found over the past few years under Athletic Director Bobby Robinson.

Last year was Robinson's most successful since taking over at the helm in March of 1985. In fact, it was one of the most successful years in the history of Clemson athletics.

Both major revenue sports, football and men's basketball were involved in post-season play in 1986-87, as were baseball and 12 other teams. In other words, out of 18 sports offered at Clemson, 15 were involved in some sort of post-season play.

In football, the Tigers finished the season ranked 17th in the AP poll and took a trip to Jacksonville, FL, where they defeated Stanford in the Gator Bowl.

The 1986-87 basketball squad became the most successful in school history as they finished the season ranked 13th and advanced to the NCAAAs for just the second time in the school's history.

The Clemson baseball team ended its season with a number-10 ranking and also traveled to the NCAA baseball tournament. The golf and tennis teams also received bids to the NCAAAs, making Clemson one of just five schools to have these three spring teams participating in NCAA post-season play.

The success of the three major sports (football, basketball, and baseball) made Clemson one of only two universities (UCLA was the other) to have all three ranked in the top 20 in the final polls.

Robinson's continued success is a result of his great commitment to being the best — in competition, in academics and in facilities. Last season is evidence of the program moving towards the best in competition, but Clemson athletics is also taking strides towards being the best in the two other areas.

In academics, Clemson student-athletes had an outstanding year. Over 65 athletes had 3.0 or better grade point ratios either semester, with the football team having three players named to the Academic All-ACC team. Six students were named to various academic All-America teams, the most ever for one season.

In the area of facilities, Robinson has also enjoyed success. Renovations over the past few years have included the Strength Training Center, one of the finest in the country; Tiger Field, home of the Clemson baseball team; and the West End Zone locker room complex in Memorial Stadium. New facilities include a new activities room in Death Valley, an indoor tennis facility, and new permanent soccer stadium on Riggs Field. In addition to all of this, a continuing maintenance program for all facilities and practice areas has been established.

From a university perspective, Robinson envisions the athletic department as being one of 49 departments on campus, equal to English, accounting, and the others. "We believe the athletic department is a viable, important part of the mission of Clemson University," says Robinson, "as athletic competition provides a common bond for students, faculty, staff, and friends."

Under Robinson, the athletic department has continued support of the university. Band uniforms and travel, the educational enhancement fund (coordinated with the Athletic Council) are some of the areas that have been developed.

Robinson was born in Columbia, SC and attended A.C. Flora High School. During his high school career, he was a point-guard for the basketball team and a third baseman in baseball. He also played golf competitively, and was a scratch golfer at one time. Robinson did not play any high school sports as a senior because of a heat stroke suffered in the summer of 1963. He graduated from A.C. Flora in 1964 and then enrolled in Furman University.

Robinson was graduated from Furman with a B.S. degree in business and political science in 1968. He was the president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity chapter at Furman. After he was graduated from Furman, Robinson worked in his family's laundry and dry-cleaning business for two years.

Robinson came to Clemson in 1970, not in athletics, but in the housing office. After three years, he moved across campus to serve as an administrative assistant in the athletic department. "I started at Clemson in the housing office, but I came to Clemson with the intention of working in athletics," said Robinson. "No opening existed at the time, so I had to wait until there was one."

After serving the athletic department in various capacities, he became business manager in 1975. Two years later he was named assistant athletic director and in 1980 he became associate AD. He held that title for four years, and his area of responsibility moved to primarily football and basketball.

While serving his administrative duties, Robinson found time to coach the Clemson golf team between 1975 and 1983. During his time as the head coach, Clemson won its first ACC title in golf and three times the Tigers participated in the NCAA tournament. In 1983, his final season as the head coach, he guided Clemson to a number-five finish. Clarence Rose was one of three All-Americans to play for the Tigers during his tenure and he is now a successful member of the pro tour.

With Robinson's qualifications, it is easy to see why the Clemson athletic program enjoys continued success - he has done it all. He has been an administrator at all levels, he has worked in other areas in the university, he has been a head coach, and he has handled the budgetary aspects needed to run a $12 million program.

Robinson has confidence in his staff, his coaches, his athletes, and the facilities at Clemson University. "We have a solid base to work from, but if we are not moving forward, we are losing ground. We will work within university guidelines and expand our horizons. We want to be as good as we can as a vital part of the university and the state of South Carolina."

Danny Ford

One need only look at the history of the Gator Bowl to understand the degree of success Danny Ford has had in college football. He is the only man to serve as a head coach, assistant coach and a player in the history of that Florida-based bowl game, and he is one of the few head coaches to win there twice.

Overall he has had 19 winning regular seasons in his 20-year affiliation with the game, and his teams have won nearly 73 percent of the time. How has he done it? "When you go to a Clemson practice you sense almost a buddy-buddy relationship between the head coach and players," said CBS Commentator and former Notre Dame Head Coach Ara Parseghian during a recent broadcast. "He has the respect of his players and his players enjoy playing for him. He is a disciple of Bear Bryant."

Communication with his players past and present has always been a strength for Danny Ford. This past spring when the 1981 National Championship team was honored at Clemson over 50 of his former players from that team came back to campus. Certainly testimony to the camaraderie of that team, but also a testimony to Ford, who has built Clemson into one of the top programs in America over the last 10 seasons.

Probably the most significant accomplishment on Ford's resume is the 1981 National Championship. His youthful accomplishments compare favorably to Mozart in terms of reaching goals at an early age. A look at past national champions indicates that the current Clemson mentor is the youngest coach in the history of the college game to win the Associated Press National Championship.

Ford took Clemson to the national title in 1981 at the age of 33 and now is the winningest coach in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference on a percentage basis. Additionally, Ford is already seventh in total wins among ACC coaches.

And, the success has come against top competition. Ford has already gained more wins over AP top 20 teams and top 10 teams than any other Clemson coach in history and is the only coach in ACC history (eight years experience) to have a winning record against top 20 teams (top 20 when playing against Clemson).

Clemson fans are certainly happy Ford entered the profession because he has brought a solid program to among the finest in the nation. Now in his ninth full season at Clemson, his record of 66-23-4 (.731) is the sixth best winning percentage in college football among active coaches. Additionally, Clemson has the 8th best winning percentage in the nation over the last 10 years.

Between 1981 and 1984 Clemson had a 37-6-2 ledger, the fourth best winning percentage in America. The class of '84 was the third winningest in ACC history in terms of winning percentage, and no ACC class in the 34-year history of the league ever won more games in a four-year period.

In 1978 he was offensive coordinator for the 11-1 team that won the Gator Bowl over Ohio State, 17-15. The Gadsden, AL native was more than just the offensive coordinator in that game, however, as he had become the head coach of the Tigers on December 10 after Charley Pell had already left to go to Florida. The 30-year-old Ford made quite a celebrated beginning to his head coaching career with that victory over the Woody Hayes-coached Buckeyes. The nationally televised Clemson victory helped put the Tigers on the national football map and it began Clemson's climb to among the elite of college football.

In 1979, Ford's first full season as a head coach, he proved the victory in the Gator Bowl was no fluke as he took a team that had lost six players to the pros to an 8-4 record and another bowl game. Included in the eight triumphs in 1979 were a win at Notre Dame and a triumph over Georgia on the way to a Peach Bowl confrontation with Baylor.

Two years later Ford became the youngest coach in the history of the game to win the National Championship. Ford surprised the college football world by taking the unranked Tigers to three wins over top 10 teams and a perfect 12-0 record. Clemson handed Herschel Walker the only regular-season loss of his Georgia career, downed North Carolina in Chapel Hill in the only showdown of top 10 teams in ACC history, then defeated former National Champion Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

That obviously is the highmark of Ford's brief, but eventful career at Clemson as he was named national Coach-of-the-Year by UPI, the College Football Writers of America, the Walter Camp Foundation, the Football Coaches of America, and WTBS television.

Despite the loss of many excellent players off the National Championship team, Ford led Clemson to the ACC title in 1982 and a 9-1-1 record. The 1983 team also followed with a 9-1-1 record, giving Clemson a 30-2-2 ledger between 1981 and 1983, the best record in college football.

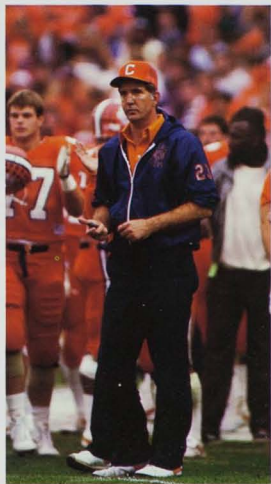

In 1984 Clemson continued many successful streaks, as Ford ran a record home unbeaten stretch to 25 games, and an ACC winning streak to 20 games. Ford gained his 50th win at Clemson with a victory over N.C. State in Raleigh. It was just Ford's 65th game in Tigertown, a record for an ACC coach for swiftness in reaching that victory plateau.

Over the last two years he has taken Clemson to two bowls and has been the head coach in a bowl five times overall. Clemson has continued its streak of consecutive winning regular seasons to 10, an all-time ACC record. It is no coincidence that the streak began when Ford first arrived, 1977. Last year Clemson finished 17th in the final AP poll, won the ACC championship and the Gator Bowl.

A review of Ford's football past should help us understand why he has been so successful as a head coach. Another in a long line of former Bear Bryant players that has gone on to greatness in coaching, Ford played for the Bear between 1967 and 1969. He was Kenny Stabler's sophomore tight end as a starter in 1967, played that position in 1968 and moved to offensive tackle in 1969. Ford started all three years, was all-conference in 1969 and played on three teams that went to bowl games. In 1969 he was also a member of the All-SEC academic team, and served as the captain of the Alabama team.

After Pat Dye's coaxing, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 seasons. He had already earned his B.S. degree in industrial arts and earned his master's degree in special education in 1971. Ford became a full-time aide for Bryant in 1972 and 1973. The Tide went to four bowl games while Ford was an assistant coach.

Clemson's current head man then accepted a position as an assistant coach under Jimmy Sharpe at Virginia Tech. He remained in Blacksburg for three seasons (1974-76) before coming to Clemson as offensive line coach in 1977. And, just 23 games later he was named head coach of the Tigers at the age of 30, the youngest active division I coach in the country. Nearly 40 years after hiring 31-year-old Alabama graduate Frank Howard, Clemson had hired 30-year-old Alabama graduate Danny Ford.

Danny Ford is America's sixth winningest active coach.

Football Staff

Miles Aldridge joined the Tiger coaching staff in June of 1985. A native of Kansas City, MO, Aldridge coaches the inside linebackers. He is responsible for recruiting in South Carolina, Florida, southern New Jersey, and the Philadelphia area. A 1971 graduate of Gardner-Webb College, he is in his 17th year of coaching. Aldridge began his collegiate coaching career at East Tennessee State; after that, he moved to Wichita State, Tulsa, and then Mississippi. Before arriving at Clemson, he served as linebacker coach at Duke for two seasons.

Wayne Bolt joined the Clemson staff on March 10, 1986 from Auburn. His responsibilities include coaching the tight ends and the kickoff return teams. Bolt's first season as a Tiger coach was a successful one as he coached an All-ACC tight end (Jim Riggs), and his kickoff return team led the nation in return yardage. Bolt has no recruiting responsibilities but he is director of the football dorm. He earned his bachelor's degree in Health and Physical Education at East Carolina in 1979. After working as a graduate assistant coach at East Carolina, he took the job as offensive line coach at the University of Wyoming.

Jack Crowe joined the Clemson staff on February 24, 1986, as the Tiger quarterback coach. He came to Clemson from Auburn, where he served as offensive coordinator under Pat Dye and coached Heisman Trophy winner Bo Jackson. He has also served in the offensive coordinator position at Wyoming and North Alabama and was both an assistant and head coach at Livingston University. Crowe received his undergraduate degree in chemistry from Alabama-Birmingham in 1970, and completed his master's degree in education from Livingston in 1973. The Fairfield, AL, native is responsible for recruiting in the Georgia, Virginia and Alabama areas this year.

Bill D'Andrea is one of the newest additions to the Clemson coaching staff, as he returned to the staff in 1986 from Southern Mississippi. Prior to that he was a graduate assistant coach at East Carolina, a full-time assistant at the University of Virginia, Massanutten Military Academy, Catawba College, and was a graduate assistant coach at Clemson. D'Andrea received his bachelor's degree from Indiana State in 1973, and completed his master's degree in 1975. He lacks only a few semester hours from receiving a second master's degree. He coaches the offensive tackles and recruits for the Tigers in North Carolina, Virginia Beach and northern New Jersey.

Tom Harper became Clemson's assistant head coach in February, 1981. Having served as defensive coordinator at North Carolina and Iowa State, his most recent stint in that same position was at Virginia Tech. He was also Wake Forest's head coach in 1972. Harper graduated from the University of Kentucky with his bachelor's degree in 1955 and received his master's degree from there in 1958. He is responsible for recruiting in South Carolina and New York. Six of the Clemson players he has coached have played pro football, including two who were NFL starters last year (William Perry and Jeff Bryant).

Larry Van Der Heyden has coached Clemson's offensive line for the past eight years, and he has coached an All-America guard three of the last four years. He recruits in South Carolina, North Carolina and western Pennsylvania. Van Der Heyden joined the Tiger coaching staff in January 1979, as he came from Memphis State where he was offensive coordinator for three years. He also served stints at Iowa State, Drake, Indiana State, East Carolina, and Virginia. He earned his B.A. and master's degree at Iowa State and lettered three years in football and baseball.

Woody McCorvey is in his fifth year of coaching Clemson receivers. For three years he was the Tigers' tight end coach, and for two of those seasons he coached the All-ACC tight end. He is in his second season as a wide receiver coach. He recruits in North Carolina and Florida. McCorvey came to Clemson from Alabama A&M where he was offensive coordinator for four years. The 1972 Alabama State graduate lettered four years in football at the school before earning his physical education degree. He then received a master's degree in health, leisure, and sports from the University of West Florida in 1977.

Bill Oliver is in his second season at Clemson as the defensive secondary coach. He also recruits for the Tigers in Florida, Alabama and Georgia. A native of Livingston, AL, he began his collegiate coaching career as defensive secondary coach at Auburn, and five years later was hired by the late Paul "Bear" Bryant to fill the same position at Alabama. His most recent stint, however, was with the Memphis Showboats of the United States Football League, where he served as senior defensive coordinator and secondary coach. Oliver was a member of the 1961 undefeated National Championship Alabama team, and he received his bachelor's degree in 1962.

Chuck Reedy has coached Clemson's running backs for the last nine years. He also has a heavy recruiting schedule covering South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and the New York-Long Island areas. The St. Augustine, FL, native earned two letters in football from Appalachian State, where he was a 1971 graduate in health and physical education. He came to Clemson from Kentucky on July 5, 1978. Reedy is the main reason Clemson has signed the top player in Jacksonville five of the past six years. Every running back with the exception of one who has started under Reedy at Clemson has been drafted by the Pros or has signed a free agent contract. This list includes Kevin Mack, 1985's AFC offensive rookie-of-the-year.

Tommy West is in his sixth season coaching the Clemson defensive and band ends. He is also in charge of recruiting for the Tigers in Florida and Georgia. Prior to coming to Clemson, West coached at Appalachian State until July of 1982. The Gainesville, GA, native earned his B.S. degree in health education from the University of Tennessee in 1975 after lettering three years in football and baseball. A fine all-around athlete, West was drafted out of high school by baseball's Chicago Cubs.

In The Long Run

Knowing you're the best you can be. Knowing the effort, sweat and determination pays off with personal satisfaction and good health. Though it's a never-ending challenge, the reward – feeling good and feeling good about yourself – makes it all worthwhile.

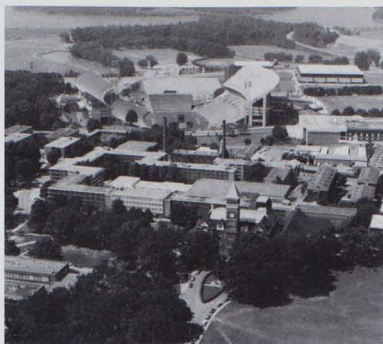

At Blue Cross and Blue Shield of South Carolina and the Companion Group of Companies, we're constantly striving to be the best we can be. Working hard to deliver top-quality health insurance and related services like life insurance, property and casualty insurance, health maintenance organization coverage, financial management and more.

Our strength is obvious in a number of ways – financial stability, corporate citizenship in the community, dependability, state of the art operations and a myriad of products and services. But our true strength can only be measured in the satisfaction you feel, knowing Blue Cross and Companion are the best we can be for you ... in the long run.

On a hot muggy 1934 August day within the town of Clemson, Dr. Rupert H. Fike wrote a letter to Clemson football coach Jess Neely which began, "Coach last night we had a little meeting at our house and organized the IPTAY Club (I Pay Ten a Year)."

Since that day in 1934, IPTAY has revamped its name to I Pay Thirty a Year. From the early days when memberships were often paid in eggs and fresh vegetables, IPTAY has annually been one of the top organizations of its kind in America. Today, over 20,000 active members support IPTAY annually, and it is this scholarship fund-raising organization that is a prime reason for Clemson's ranking among the nation's elite in football and all sports. Clemson recently completed its most successful year ever athletically as 10 teams finished in the Top 20 of their respective final polls, and seven teams won conference championships.

IPTAY's first and foremost goal is to annually insure the financing of a quality education for nearly 400 student-athletes, trainers, and managers. Countless numbers of success stories begin with the receipt of an IPTAY scholarship, and through the generous support of IPTAY members, Clemson University has been able to award the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA in Clemson's 18 men's and women's varsity sports. For the over 3,000 students who have been awarded IPTAY scholarships, and for those who are still to come, without a doubt IPTAY works for them.

Because of IPTAY's commitment to excellence both in the classroom and on the playing field, the ability to expand programs has enabled IPTAY to directly benefit the entire university family. In the fall of 1984, the IPTAY Athletic Academic Endowment Scholarship Fund was created to award financial support to students whose performance in the classroom warranted distinction.

The concept that supports the endowment is based on money donated by matching gift companies, as well as monies generated by television appearances and scholarship awards in such contests. What results from this endowment is one of the largest unrestricted scholarships in the history of Clemson. Perhaps the most exciting feature of the fund is its potential. As the years go on, the growth of the program will only be equalled by IPTAY's desire to work for Clemson.

Other contributions made possible to Clemson University through IPTAY include several capital improvement projects which have helped to give the university the best facilities in the nation.

Some of the current projects that are sponsored by IPTAY include an indoor tennis facility, as well as permanent soccer stadium. The indoor facility features four indoor courts, as well as permanent seating, and will be available for faculty, students, and staff when not in use by the varsity tennis teams. The soccer stadium will provide a home for the 1984 National Champions.

The Tiger Band sported new uniforms last fall. The uniforms, as well as all expenses for band travel, are sponsored by IPTAY. This commitment, of well over $200,000, allows the Tiger Band to strut its stuff in style, both home and away.

Although the success of IPTAY's programs and the financial management of its Board of Directors have enabled IPTAY to assist in other concerns of the university, the primary concern of IPTAY is in educating young people and in servicing the needs of its membership.

IPTAY sponsors one of the most progressive tutorial programs in the country, and at any time, any athlete is able to supplement his education through the use of tutors, or the impressive study hall program. A highly-trained academic advising staff helps the student-athletes prepare for a future, and to shape their tomorrow by studying today. Through these efforts, nearly a fourth of Clemson's student-athletes were on the honor roll in the spring semester of 1987.

Working for IPTAY members is one of the major goals of the IPTAY Board and the internal staff. Each IPTAY member receives personal service to their account, and is constantly kept abreast of the programs of Clemson through the IPTAY office. Every member receives thirty-five issues of the Orange and White each year. As the official publication of IPTAY, the Orange and White is exclusively distributed to IPTAY members, and features indepth coverage of Clemson athletics.

IPTAY is a part of Clemson in many ways. Through its various programs and contributions, the 20,000 members of IPTAY spread their support of Clemson throughout the entire university family.

Danny Ford is a frequent speaker at IPTAY meeting.

Clemson Coaches

In many ways 1986-87 was Clemson's most successful athletic year ever. The Tigers tied the ACC record for league championships in an academic year with seven (football, women's cross country, women's tennis, men's tennis, men's indoor track, women's swimming and golf) and this tied the mark held by North Carolina in 1980-81 and Maryland, 1964-65. Clemson's previous school mark was six in 1981-82.

Additionally, Clemson had 10 teams finish in the top 20 in the various national polls and an 11th was in the top 20 at one time or another. The most top 20 teams Clemson had previously in final polls over the course of an academic year was nine, established twice (1981-82 and 1982-83).

Clemson was successful in the major sports of football, basketball, and baseball and was one of only two schools in the nation to rank in the top 20 in football, basketball, and baseball in the final polls. UCLA was the only other institution to achieve this level of excellence in the three major sports and it is the first time Clemson has done it.

Emergency Services

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations. (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck). These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South Stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

MEDICAL ADVICE FOR FANS

If you have a pre-existing medical or health problem, please check with your personal physician and obtain his advice before attending games. Many emergencies occurring at the stadium do so because of prior existing conditions. Use common sense in dressing, eating, drinking and physical exertion. Be certain that you have identification on you as to the diagnosis and what medications you are currently taking.

Be aware of warning signs of heart attacks: chest pain, chest tightness, shortness of breath, sweating, palpitations, fainting, nausea and vomiting.

Recognize that our most common serious medical problems at football games are heart attacks and allergic reactions to insect stings. Be aware that insect stings will always be very frequent at outdoor sporting events and should always be treated with immediate ice until advice can be obtained. If you have ever had a reaction to a bee or other insect sting, check with your personal physician as to whether you should carry a kit.

The stadium emergency phone number is (803) 656-2999.

Power for Peanuts.

You can get an awful lot of energy for what you pay for a bag of peanuts.

So enjoy those peanuts. They're full of energy.

*Denotes missed one game due to suspension or personal reason
Schonhar held in every game, but was in for a scrimmage play in just two games.

Plays denotes snaps from scrimmage plays only, it does not count special teams plays.

GM denotes game missed in 1986 due to injury.

Loyalty

It's the tie that binds families together as they support each other through joys and hardships. The dedication that keeps devoted friends close, even over great distances. The force that compels patriots to leave their homes to defend their country, sometimes in the face of incredible odds.

It's that special love that brings 80,000 fans, in full orange regalia, into Death Valley on Saturday afternoons to cheer the Tigers to victory, and it remains strong whether or not the victory is won.

Clemson alumni and friends may well hold a record for loyalty, a fierce and proud loyalty that is demonstrated not only on football Saturdays, but through solid support for academic excellence at Clemson University.

This support furnishes scholarship funds for outstanding students, provides resources to attract and retain distinguished classroom teachers, helps develop state-of-the-art technology and train students in its use, allows library acquisitions and expands the scope of research. In short, private support makes the difference between an "adequate" education and the superior education for which Clemson graduates have become known.

Pledge your loyalty to Clemson University's continuing academic excellence through a gift to the Clemson Loyalty Fund.

CLEMSON

STEVENS

Providence people... making the vital difference.

Studies have shown that, even with the very latest and best methods of treatment, patients get well faster if their medical care is given with a large measure of love.

The people of Providence Hospital provide that essential ingredient to the healing process.

Everyone, sick or well, needs the comfort of loving hands. But Christian concern and love are even more vital to the sick.

We see this demonstrated every day—thanks to Providence people. They care enough to take time to add old-fashioned love to the science of modern medicine.

John Phillips

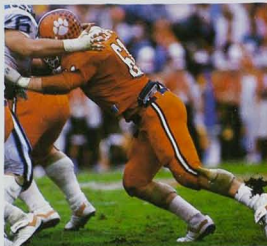

John Phillips must be doing something right. Of all the positions on the football field, his is, arguably, the easiest to overlook. The only thing that might give an offensive guard more marquis value than the tackle beside him is the possibility of the guard picking up the ball and running with it on the fumblerewski play.

But that hasn't happened in John Phillips' career, and he gets noticed anyway. "No," he says, "I can't complain. I've gotten a lot of attention this year, deservedly or not I don't know." Well, the Spruce Pine, NC, native must be doing something right.

The statistics certainly indicate that he is. Since his insertion into the starting lineup at right guard in the fifth game of the 1985 season, Clemson has averaged 260.2 yards rushing per game. That number compares to the 131 yards a game mark that the Tigers were averaging through the first four games of 1985 when he didn't start.

Besides that, Phillips is immortalizing the knockdown block, one of the few individual statistics by which offensive linemen can be judged. In those 28 games in a row that the 6-5, 270-pound red-shirt senior has started, he has knocked a defender off his feet an average of 7.7 times per game. In 1986, his 100 knockdown blocks set a Clemson record, and he is on a pace that would put him somewhere up around 120 for a 12-game season in 1987.

And all this hasn't gone unnoticed over that past couple years, either. John was a UPI first-team All-American last season, as well as a Playboy preseason All-American this year. He was also first-team All-ACC last year and looks like a strong candidate to reap post-season awards again this year.

All this from a guy who came to Clemson as a linebacker in 1983. He was red-shirted that year, but played in every game in 1984 as a linebacker before being switched to the offensive line at the very end of the season. "We had Henry Walls, Keith Williams, and Eldridge Milton at linebacker already," John says, "and it didn't look to me like I was going to get as much playing time as I wanted. And I just wasn't a Clemson type of linebacker. I was a little too big."

Yea, well, uh, it kinda looks like the size factor has worked out to the advantage of a lot of people. Just ask Kenny Flowers and Terrence Flagler.

But this guy Phillips does a lot more than just play football. After costing himself several credit hours at Clemson by changing his major from administrative management to sociology two-and-a-half years into the curriculum, he's looking to receive his degree in sociology at the end of this school year.

"I was never in a college prep course,"

By Willie Shearer

Phillips recalls, "because I didn't think I was going to go to college. We were so small, that the teachers would pick the students they thought were college-bound students and put them in the college prep courses. I did OK — a B student. But nobody expected me to go to college. I sort of threw them a curve when I got a scholarship to play football."

Phillips has also managed to gain favor with a sweetheart of a girl named Alison Dillard, a Clemson alum and graduate student who hails from nearby Anderson. "Coach Ford gives us Sundays off. So when I don't have to study, I like to go to her house in Anderson and spend the day there."

And did you know that John Phillips was a pretty fine wrestler in high school? As a heavyweight, he made it to the state tournament as a senior. Back then he only weighed around 208 pounds — "pretty sorry," he says now.

But he has fond memories of getting on the mat, saying "It's just like that movie 'Vision Quest,' where those guys are just crazy. It's really an individual sport, but there's a lot of hearsay in it. Just like that guy called Shoot in the movie."

"There's always a guy in your section that's just unbelievably good that everyone talks about. There was a guy like that in our section who had just moved in, and nobody liked this guy because he was cocky, really cocky. Even this guy's hometown fans hated this guy, but he could make you look like a fool."

"Well, I had to wrestle him once, and before the match his mother comes up to me and my 138-pound buddy who was sitting beside me, and she says, 'You Phillips? You know you're wrestling against an AAU All-American?' And I didn't believe her because I really didn't know how good this guy was, but everyone else knew."

"But, then my friend jumped in there real quick and tried to get me away from her. I ended up throwing some ungodly unorthodox move on him, and I had him on his back. The fans erupt, I'm holding on for dear life, and I'm about to pin him when the period runs out on me. It wasn't like 'Vision Quest.' I ran out of time, then he beat me on points."

Oh well, can't win 'em all, I guess.

But the chances are, with his skill on the gridiron and his personality off the field, John Phillips doesn't stand to lose too many more battles in life.

Phillips is headed for another 100 knockdown block season.

According to John Phillips

The possibility of running the ball on a fumblerewski play: "The guard around? Maybe on the goal line I could punch it in, but I don't think I could from 50 yards out. I'd run out of gas."

The obscurity of playing the offensive line: "Some guys accept it. Some guys like it that way. And I think I'm just fortunate to be one of the ones who is able to get some notoriety. It works both ways because you don't have that many factors to get you noticed, but you don't have that many factors to make you look bad either."

The knockdown block: "The whole novelty of the idea is that, when you're in a run-oriented offense like we are, you're going to get lots of chances to knock people down. And it's really not that hard to chop a linebacker's legs, unless it's a Mike Junkin who hurdles guys who try to chop him."

Pre-game preparation: "Well, I'm a little superstitious. I always put my right knee pad in my pants first. It's always the same knee pad and I always put it in there first. There's not much mental preparation, because if it's gonna happen, it's gonna happen. There's nothing you can do pre-game if you haven't done it all week. I'm just a little superstitious about getting dressed."

Biggest thrill in football: "That's a tough one. I guess I'd have to say, coming from a losing high school program, I get real excited about just winning a game. I don't ever take winning for granted, because I just never had a chance to get used to it in high school."

ACC Championship: "I need it, I believe, being a senior. I've never had the hunger that I do this year. Last year, it was great, and I was tickled to death to win it. But this year, I've got the hunger for it."

Offensive line coach Larry Van Der Heyden: "He's going to have a tremendous impact on what I do for the rest of my life, on and off the football field. There isn't any man alive, besides my father, that has had the impact on me that he has. It's amazing the lessons that he teaches on the field that apply to life off the field."

The pressure of being Hank Phillips' brother: "There's a lot of pressure there.

I've got a lot to live up to ... No, of course there's no pressure for me. But really it's a lot of fun for me to have him here. Anybody can see that we're cut from the same mold, but if you take a closer look you can see that we're like night and day. Just look at our majors, he's industrial education, and I'm sociology. Anything with a gear box in it and he's in heaven, but I'm clueless."

A career in the NFL: "I would enjoy it. It looks like I'm going to get the opportunity to do something. I'd like to get a decent shot."

Any particular team: "Any team near the beach. Really, though, I'd think I would perform better for a running team. It's not that I'm a bad pass-blocker, it's just that I'm probably a little bit better at run blocking."

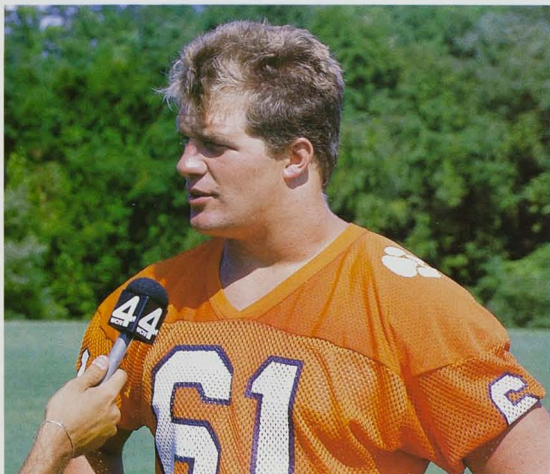

This year's new orange pants: "Good idea. I'm glad we could start that. I feel very fortunate to be a part of that. And it's good to start a new thing with these pants, just like the other guys did with the old orange pants back in 1980. They liked to call themselves the Generation of Domination, so we like to call this the New Generation of Domination."

Heroes: "The Pittsburgh Steelers, I used to love the Steelers because of the steel curtain. I thought the Steelers back in the seventies were just awesome. I used to be able to name 'em all."

Roommate Dan Pearman: "My roomie — 'Dawg.' He got the nickname from Mark Maye (UNC quarterback). A lot of years and a lot of time invested in that friendship. We've done a lot of things and been in a lot of trouble, had a lot of good times. But we've learned from each other. We get out of more trouble than we get in, I can tell you that. He is the luckiest human in the world."

The possibility of scoring a touchdown: "I guess it's a dream. You just got to fall into it. It's one of those things that doesn't happen often. If you're going to score, you've got to be in the right place at the right time. Now, if Dan Pearman were an interior lineman, he'd score two touchdowns."

Phillips is one of the leaders of the "New Generation of Domination."

A Winning Tradition

Since The Days of John Heisman

When you look at the 24 schools that have won the National Championship of college football since 1937 it is apparent that those schools have a deep seated tradition of excellence. A firm foundation is of utmost importance in today's competitive college football environment and Clemson certainly has a 90-year legacy of success that allows it to compete for championships and bowl appearances on a yearly basis.

The Tigers won 72 percent of their games in the first 11 years they played college football, as a man named John Heisman established a solid foundation as the Clemson coach. He led Clemson to its first undefeated season in 1900 (6-0) and his stout defense was the major reason Clemson outscored the opposition that year 222-10. Heisman's 1902 team yielded only 22 points in seven games and the Tigers were off and clawing.

Jess Neely continued the tradition in the decade of the thirties as he guided Clemson to a 16-2-1 ledger in 1938-39. In 1939 All-American Banks McFadden took Clemson to a Cotton Bowl contest against Boston College. Clemson landed an upset of the 11th-ranked Eagles and the 9-1 ledger put Clemson on the college football map on a national level.

Banks McFadden

John Heisman

Frank Howard took over in 1940 and became the winningest coach in ACC history by the time he retired in 1969. The Clemson legend guided the Tigers to the Southern Conference title in his very first year and appearances in six Bowl games and six ACC titles followed. The well-respected mentor led Clemson to its first top 10 ranking and two unbeaten seasons in the middle of this century. Fred Cone ran the Tigers to an 11-0 finish and Gator Bowl win over Missouri in 1948, and a 9-0-1 ledger in 1950 that included a one-point win over Miami (FL) in the Orange Bowl.

Clemson entered the ACC in 1953 and immediately took the conference by storm as Howard led Clemson to six ACC titles by 1967. Clemson has more ACC crowns and has had more All-Americans than any other school in the league and success during the fifties and sixties under Howard is a major reason.

ACC Winning Regular Seasons

Cons.	Team	Years	Overall Win Reg. Seasons
10	Clemson	1977-present	21
8	Maryland	1973-80	18
5	Duke	1953-57	15
5	North Carolina	1979-83	15

2	Wake Forest	1970-71	6
2	South Carolina	1959-59	6
2	Georgia Tech	1984-85	2

In the sixties and seventies Clemson began its major impact on the professional ranks. Bill Mathis was a starter on the New York Jets Super Bowl Championship team in 1969. Charlie Waters and Bennie Cunningham had outstanding careers at Clemson, then went on to play in seven Super Bowls between them over the next decade. Their success brought the pro scouts to Tigertown, and it is now a stop on every team's tour multiple times a year.

While Clemson had a classic football tradition that dates to the Teddy Roosevelt presidential era, the Tigers have been especially successful in contemporary times. Since the second year of Jimmy Carter's term Clemson has been among the top 10 winningest teams in the nation.

The Beat Goes On

Clemson has a streak of 10 consecutive winning regular seasons going dating back to the 1977 season when Clemson went to the Gator Bowl. The stretch is an all-time ACC record for consecutive winning regular seasons and the Tigers have more winning regular seasons than any other team in the league over the 34-year history of the ACC.

Ten years certainly is not a "flash in the pan" time frame and it is easy to see that Clemson's football tradition is flourishing. In the last 10 years Clemson has 13 wins over top 20 teams, has had 23 All-America selections, 63 All-ACC players and made six appearances in post-season bowl games. Between 1981 and 1984 Clemson won 37 games, a total no ACC class in history has exceeded, and ranked in the top 20 in the nation in the final AP poll six times. In the last 10 years, Clemson has the eighth best winning percentage in the nation.

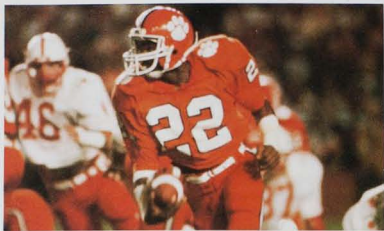

Clemson had that dream season in 1981 as the Tigers won 12 straight games, the only team in college football that season to have a totally unblemished record. Danny Ford's young team handed Herschel Walker the only regular season defeat of his career at Georgia, then walked over six ACC teams to claim the ACC Championship. Clemson defeated three top 10 teams that season, including Nebraska, a former National Champion, in the Orange Bowl in what proved to be the title game.

William Perry and company stopped Herschel Walker.

Rod McSwain blocked a punt to turn around 1981 South Carolina game.

The 22-15 victory touched off one of the Carolina's greatest celebrations. Clemson had won over all kinds of odds to claim the sport's highest honor. At year's end, five players were named All-American on various teams, Jeff Davis became just the third defensive player in ACC history to be named the Player-of-the-Year, and Clemson Coach Danny Ford was a consensus choice as national Coach-of-the-Year.

Few schools in the nation and no school in the Atlantic Coast Conference can boast of the number of All-Americans the Clemson program has produced in the last 10 seasons. Clemson has had at least one All-American every year since 1977. The recognition parallels Clemson's overall rise to greatness in this era of college football.

Joe Bostic, a strong lineman from Greensboro, NC started the streak as he was a first-team All-American in both 1977 and 1978. The Steve Fuller to Jerry Butler combination also was honored in the 1978 season, the first All-America pass-catching combination in Clemson history. Jim Stuckey, was a consensus first-team selection in 1979 and Obed Ariri was an all-star choice in 1980 when he led the NCAA in field goals.

Billy Lott led Tigers to victory at Notre Dame.

Terence Mack, All-ACC 1986

Kevin Mack, All-ACC 1983

The 1981 season was the finest in Clemson history in terms of honors. Linebacker Jeff Davis and free safety Terry Kinard were consensus first-team selections. The following year Kinard was chosen a unanimous All-American and was named the National Defensive Player-of-the-Year by CBS Sports.

William Perry broke all the All-America records between 1982 and 1984 as he became Clemson's first three-time All-American. He capped his career by his acclamation as the nation's top defensive player according to the 1984 Washington, DC Touchdown Club. Perry finished his career as the ACC's leader in career tackles for loss and quarterback sacks. Last year, Terrence Flagler and John Phillips continued the tradition and were first-team choices.

And, the honors have been achieved against a national schedule. Over the last eight years Clemson has played such national powers as Ohio State, Notre Dame, Nebraska and Boston College. Future schedules include Florida State, Missouri and many other top institutions.

A look at today's NFL ranks gives testimony to the success rate of Clemson football in recent years. Last year Clemson had 21 former Tigers in the NFL, the 17th highest total among NCAA member schools. In 1985 the Super Bowl was virtually a Clemson alumni game as the Bears and the Patriots had two former Tigers apiece on their rosters, and no other school in the nation could claim more former players in that game. Last year two New York Giants, Terry Kinard and Andy Headen, earned Super Bowl rings.

A look at the roster of the 1981 Clemson National Championship team shows that an incredible 49 players off that club were either drafted or signed a free agent contract with some professional football team. The defensive line off that team alone had six players move on to pro football, four of whom were in the NFL in 1986.

The 1986 team was comparable to that 1981 club in many statistics and like that club of five years previously finished in the top 20, won the ACC championship and won a bowl game on National Television. Four Clemson players went in the first four rounds of the pro draft and only four schools in the nation had more players taken in the first four rounds.

Bowl Games

Clemson's 12-game bowl history dates back to 1940 when the Tigers stopped a Frank Leahy coached Boston College team, 6-3. It has been an illustrious history that has seen Clemson clinch undefeated seasons, top 10 rankings and a National Championship. Clemson has appeared in the Cotton, Sugar, Orange, Gator, and many other post-season extravaganzas over the last 46 years and the memories have been lasting.

When the Tigers go bowling the outcome is usually exciting as nine of the 12 games have been decided by a touchdown or less. Clemson won its first three bowl games by a total of five points and each one of the wins helped escalate Clemson's national rise to prominence.

Banks McFadden led Clemson to the win over Boston College, Clemson's first documented win over a team ranked in the top 20 of the AP poll. A decade later Clemson stopped a highly regarded Missouri team, 24-23, before a then Gator Bowl record crowd. Two years later Sterling Smith saved the game for Clemson in a 15-14 win over Miami in the Orange Bowl. The lineman tackled an enemy Hurricane quarterback in the endzone for a safety for the deciding points in the final minutes of play.

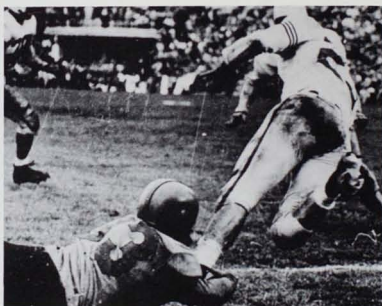

Clemson has been to six bowls in the last 10 seasons. Two contests will stand out in Clemson grid history for many years to come. In the 1978 Gator Bowl the Tigers defeated Woody Hayes and Ohio State in the venerable mentor's last game with the Buckeyes. It was also Danny Ford's first as head coach at Clemson. The celebrated beginning did not bother Ford as a late interception by Charlie Bauman helped Clemson to a 17-15 win.

In the 1982 Orange Bowl Clemson moved to the top of the heavyweight division of the sport with a 22-15 conquest of Nebraska. The win ended a perfect 12-0 season for the Tigers, who claimed their first national title in any sport that evening in Miami. It was a star-studded team that dressed that night for the Tigers as 27 players off that team were eventually drafted and 22 others signed free agent contracts.

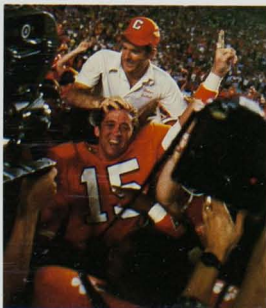

In 1986 Clemson returned to its winning ways in bowl play with a 27-21 conquest of Pac-10 power Stanford. Rodney Williams was the MVP as he led Clemson to a 27-20 halftime advantage.

Cliff Austin scored in the win over Nebraska in the 1982 Orange Bowl.

Sterling Smith won the 1951 Orange Bowl with this timely tackle.

Ray Brown and other Tigers were popular with Japanese fans at the 1982 Mirage Bowl in Tokyo

Clemson Wrestling

By Sam Blackman

With the addition of an excellent recruiting class and the recuperation of some injured veterans from a year ago, Head Coach Eddie Griffin has every right to be optimistic about the upcoming season. To summarize, a deep and healthy squad along with the 12th best recruiting class in the country give the fifth-year head mentor a reason to smile and be very optimistic about the upcoming season. Clemson should have the strongest and deepest lineup from 118 to heavyweight it has had since the sport began at Tigertown in 1975.

"We are going to have something that Clemson has never had before, depth and experience at every weight," commented Griffin, who has sent 12 Tigers to NCAA Meets during his four-year stint. "Anybody that steps on the mat is capable of winning matches for us. We have talented depth in the lineup, and competition at every weight. I cannot help but be excited about this year."

"In the past, we had two or three weights where we just hoped that our man would not get pinned. We simply did not have the type of wrestlers to be this solid in the past," said Griffin. "It has taken us a while through red-shirting and good recruiting efforts to get to this point of having excellent depth."

Leading the Tigers on the mat this year will be tri-captains Kurt Howell, T. Tom Salisbury, and Billy Orr, as well as 167-pounder Jim Meetze. "Howell is a hard worker and achieved a great deal last year considering he had both knees operated on during the season," said Griffin. Howell put aside the injuries and finished with a 23-6-1 record. "He is a premier athlete in his weight classification."

"T. Tom Salisbury has the potential to be a mainstay for us if he stays healthy." Billy Orr and Jimmy Meetze will also be Tiger grapplers who will be looked upon to win their share of matches this winter. "Jimmy Meetze, who has been hampered with injuries during the past, should have the great year that he is capable of having. There are several team members in this category."

The coaching staff will also welcome the addition of freshmen Mike Bodily, Jim Guyer, Donnie Heckel, Dave Miller and Kurt Rosenberger. These recruits should see action early.

The Tigers Weight By Weight

118 — "This can be the best weight class at Clemson ever for the next two or three years," commented Griffin. "Kurt Howell has proven himself as a legitimate national contender, and should be ranked in the preseason." Howell last year finished with a 23-6-1 overall record and won four matches by technical fall. Howell, who had a 5-1 mark in dual competition, may also see action at 126. Joining Howell will be sophomore Curt Haywood, who should also help the Tigers tremendously. Last year he registered three pins and gained valuable experience as a freshman. The Tigers also reinforced this weight by adding standout freshman Donnie Heckel, a state champion from Iowa.

126 — This weight will be a much improved class for the Tigers this year and it will also be a very competitive one. Rookie Mike Bodily is pressing hard for the starting job, as well as last year's starter Rob Norton. "This class was a weak area for us last year," said Griffin. "Hopefully one of these men will come to the front for us this year." Bodily had a 124-19 record for his high school career in Oklahoma.

134 — "We feel as though we are very solid at this weight with Bill Domasky," continued Griffin. "Bill is a solid kid and nationally he has the potential to be an All-American." Domasky won nine of 10 matches at one point during last year. Helping the Tigers in this classification will be Tim Mellott who finished with an 8-7 overall record last year as a freshman.

142 — John Sarnese should see plenty of action at this weight. "Sarnese is a hard-nose kid and compares with former Tiger great Joey McKenna," said Griffin. "We feel as if he can do the job, as he has competed with kids who have placed nationally." Sarnese finished with a 13-8 overall record last year with all of his competition taking place in tournament action.

150 — T. Tom Salisbury is back for his senior year of competition after turning in a 19-13-1 record last season. "Now is the time for him to produce and do the things he is capable of doing." The Clemson tri-captain has 54 career wins, more than any other active Tiger. Newcomers Dave Miller, Dale Hallquist, and Greg Buckley, add depth to this position.

158 — Billy Orr will move up in weight this year as he wrestled to a 14-10 record last year at 150 which included a 7-4 slate in tournament action. Orr was a freshman All-American two years ago and has finished third in the ACC tourney twice. Jim Guyer, a two-time Iowa state champion, should bolster the Tigers at this weight.

167 — Jim Meetze should start for the Tigers in this slot. "Meetze can be as good as he wants to be," commented Griffin. "He has got the potential, the ability, and the power." Meetze was lost for the year with a shoulder injury in 1986-87, but still managed to wrestle to a 8-5 record in tournament action. Chris Smith, a two-time Alabama State champion and an undefeated wrestler his senior year in high school, will add depth to this weight.

177 — It is hard to project who will start in this classification for the Tigers. Matt Marcella, who started some last year and Kurt Rosenberger, an incoming freshman, are expected to compete hard for the starting berth. Marcella competed in three weight classes last season, while Rosenberger was a high school state champ in Iowa at this weight class last year.

190 — Anthony Jefferson, a Junior College All-American from Garden City JC, (Kansas) should be a stalwart for the Tigers in this classification. "He can be an All-American for us," said Griffin. "We have high hopes for him." Jefferson had an outstanding 33-3 mark last year for Garden City Community College in Kansas.

HWT — Brian Bittle is expected to be a good solid performer for Clemson. Bittle finished last year with a 5-2 dual match record and an overall 10-7 slate. "He has a big heart and possesses lots of desire," said Griffin. Two of his losses were to the top two wrestlers in the NCAA.

Terrance Herrington

By Annabelle Vaughan

Every week, thousands of fans come from far and wide to make Death Valley one of the loudest places in the country as they watch their Tigers play. During basketball season, Littlejohn Coliseum is packed with screaming fans, cheering their team to victory. And although the crowds may be smaller, even the baseball, soccer and tennis teams have stands full of supporters as they compete. These athletes can count on the screams of the fans to get them ready for competition.

Meanwhile, across campus, Terrance Herrington runs in relative silence.

He may be one of the greatest track athletes ever at Clemson University. Next summer, he has a great chance to represent the United States of America at the Olympics. He already has won a National Championship and he is only a junior. But when Terrance Herrington runs, he doesn't run for the fans.

Like most little kids, Herrington used to dream about playing before thousands of people. "I looked up to all the great football and basketball stars when I was young," he said. "Like all the other kids, I played football and basketball. I had never heard of a track star. I didn't know a thing about track."

But a funny thing happened on the way to the football field. "In my seventh grade P. E. class, we used to go outside to play football or basketball every day," Herrington remembers. "But before we could go outside, we would have to run a lap around the track. I used to race with some other kids and I always finished way before everyone else. Our teacher just happened to also be the track coach, so he asked us to come out to track practice one day."

Herrington's junior high school did not have a track team, so as a seventh grader, he began practicing with the high school's varsity team. "I didn't know what I was doing," he said, "but the first day of practice, I kept up with all the guys. I didn't get tired. The coach could see from the beginning that I had endurance. I liked it, but I wasn't real serious about it. Football was my game."

For the next two years, Herrington ran with the varsity team. "I didn't do real well my seventh grade year," he said. "I was still playing football and basketball so I didn't really concentrate on running."

"My eighth grade year, I started doing pretty well. Everybody began to tell me that I was going to be really good one day. I began to like racing and that motivated me. After my ninth grade year, I could see that I was going to make it in track, so I gave up football."

Herrington continued to excel in high school. As a senior at Hartsville High in Hartsville, S.C., he was the state cross country champion. He also won the state championships in the 800 meters and 1600 meters, setting state records with times of 1:52.04 and 4:08.50. These records still stand.

Universities with major track programs such as the University of Georgia and the University of South Carolina recruited Herrington, but he chose to come to Clemson. "I knew that Clemson was traditionally a championship team," said Herrington, "and I wanted to be a part of that. Some of the best distance runners went to Clemson. I wanted to stay close to home and Clemson was the best in the region. I also liked the fact that Clemson has a rural environment, so I wouldn't have to run on pavement all the time."

In 1985, Herrington was the number-two ranked 800-meter freshman in the country. He set two Clemson records as a rookie also: the 800 meters outdoors (1:47.50) and indoors (1:50.70). He also competed in the NCAA Indoor Championships that year.

The next summer, Herrington competed in the National Junior Championships in Washington, where he won the TAC Junior Nationals in the 1500 meters with a 3:45 time. Because of this, he was chosen to represent the United States against Japan, Canada and Mexico on the U.S. Junior Team. "The race where I won the nationals was the biggest race of my life," he said. "This was going to be the second biggest."

During the race, Herrington was accidentally tripped. "I was lying on the track, trying to get back up and finish the race," he remembers. "I looked down at my knee and it was twisted. All the ligaments in my knee were torn. I could go out there a million times and not tear up my leg like that again. It was a freak accident."

Herrington tends to de-emphasize the severity of his injury. His coach, however, does not. "Terrance's injury was bad enough to where we thought he might not walk again, much less run," said Head Track Coach Wade Williams. "The day after the accident, he asked me what he could do to start getting better and I told him to flex his knee and point his toes. So he did—several hundred times a day!"

"It's funny," Herrington said. "But it never crossed my mind that I might not run again. I never thought about it."

Rehabilitation was a grueling process. After 11 weeks on crutches, Herrington began a daily rehab program of lifting weights to strengthen his knee. For two to three hours a day, seven days a week, he would ride a bike or run in the stress free environment of a pool.

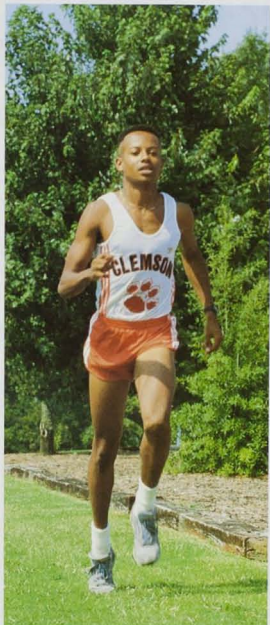

It was over a year later before Herrington was able to compete again. No sooner had he started that he suffered stress fractures in both legs. "Terrance has a slight curvature of the spine that makes one leg shorter than the other," said Coach Williams. "Because of this, he has to keep his mileage down and has to condition himself in ways other than running. He likes to train with high mileage and if he had his way, he would run over 100 miles a week. We have to make him keep his mileage down to 60 miles a week."

The stress fractures did not dampen Herrington's spirits. "I just thought back to how I had overcome my knee injury and I figured the stress fractures weren't so bad. They would get well too."

Herrington came back from his injuries last season in a blaze of glory. He won two ACC Championships, in the 800 and 1500 meters. At the NCAA meet, he finished third in the 1500 meters and in the process earned his first All-America certificate.

This year, Herrington has bigger and better things on his mind. "Everybody at home has always expected me to go to the Olympics. I think my chances are pretty good at this point."

Herrington demonstrated this will two weeks ago at the ACC Cross Country Championship. "Although he is not yet in top condition this season, he kept up with the front pack until the last 700 meters," said Williams. "He came off the top of a hill so exhausted that he fell. But he got up and kept going and finished the race and helped us to the ACC Championship. That's typical of Terrance Herrington."

All-American Terrance Herrington is a 1988 Olympic hopeful.

GROWING JOBS FOR RURAL AMERICA

Growing jobs in South Carolina is like growing anything else.

It takes a lot of work, preparing, nurturing, harvesting your resources with skill and commitment.

That's what The Electric Co-ops of South Carolina have done for the past 50 years. By delivering affordable, dependable power to rural areas, they made possible the industrialization of more than half of our state.

Since then, they've been working with local governments for economic growth, actively recruiting business and industry, and helping provide the expertise to keep South Carolina competitive and growing.

All to make rural South Carolina, and all of South Carolina, the cream of the crop.

SORRY! NO ORANGE!

In our quest to offer you our finest cars and trucks, we forgot to paint them all Orange. Dismissing that major mistake, the Carolina Dodge Boys have just the car or truck you're looking for.

Clemson away football games will seem a lot closer when your crew takes to the road in a Dodge Caravan. You get available V-6 power with ample room and a car-like ride. To give you more versatility, the new long-wheelbase Grand Caravan offers you the choice of room for seven people, or 150 cubic feet of cargo space, with rear seats removed. All this and the 7/70 Protection Plan* to protect you long after this season is over.

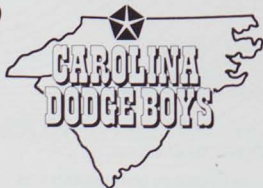

Clemson doesn't play everyday, so between games you have to work, and when you work, you need a truck that is Ram Tough. Dodge has a full line of trucks to handle the job, featuring the first true mid-sized pickups ever made, Dodge Dakota. Dakota has an available 6-cylinder engine, plenty of room and comfort for three inside, an available eight foot bed and the 7/70 Protection Plan.* Remember, America's best backed trucks are Ram Tough.

This has been the freshman year for the Dodge Shadow, a whole new breed of compact car. This newcomer comes superbly equipped with 45 standard features, including sure-footed front-wheel drive, sticky steel belted radial tires, responsive power steering and brakes, a handy liftback, and seats that fold down for extra cargo. All this, plus our proven 2.2 liter engine and Dodge's renowned 7/70 Protection Plan.*

Just like many football teams, Dodge has an import, except it's not a place kicker. Dodge offers you the Dodge Colt, Colt Premier, Vista, Raider and Ram 50 Pickup. Looking for economy? Then Dodge Colt is the one for you. Luxury? Colt Premier takes you there in style. For family-size room, look to our nifty Dodge Vista. And for performance and versatility, check out the Dodge Raider utility vehicle and the Ram 50 Pickup. Dodge is all the Japanese you need to know.

After the game, be sure to visit your hometown Carolina Dodge Boy Dealer to find the car or truck just right for you. Maybe you can arrange for him to paint it Orange!

*See 7/70 limited warranty on powertrain and outer body rust-through at dealer. Restrictions apply. 7/70 Protection Plan excludes imports.

Training Staff

By James Fleming

"Where the Tigers Play" is the second line of the alma mater. Whether it's on the court, field, diamond, mat or track, one group of individuals is always where Clemson is playing. They are the Clemson trainers. Not only are the trainers working during the competition, but they have many assignments before and after games.

They must prepare the teams for practice, assist during practice, and clean up after practice. The training room at Jervey Athletic Center is open every day, so some trainers must be on duty to help players rehabilitate their injuries, even when no team is practicing.

According to Fred "Doc" Hoover, Assistant Athletic Director and Head Trainer, "the staff tries to prevent injuries and rehabilitates the ones that do occur. Some of our methods are taping and stretching. We also use kneebraces, pads, anklewraps and bandages. And every football player has his ankle taped."

Hoover has three other certified trainers on his staff, Danny Poole, Reno Wilson, and Dawn Threatt in addition to two graduate students, Sandy Cash and Phil Threatt.

But Hoover also believes that his 19 student trainers are a very important part of the system. "They are an excellent group of individuals who work hard. We give them all the duties that we can because they are extremely responsible. Of course we supervise them, but we are able to teach them a technique of procedure, and then we let them do it.

"I personally give them credit for reducing heat related injuries during the first few weeks of practice, because they always had fluids and ice packs on the field," continued Hoover.

The student trainers come to work in the early afternoon after class, and they stay well after football practice is over. And many hours are put in on weekends, too! The student trainers could easily average working 30 hours a week in addition to about 15 hours in class!

On Friday before a home football game, the trainers set up at the stadium. They make sure they have everything needed for the game, such as: emergency field equipment, medicine, first aid supplies, pads, braces, bandages and tape. Also some of the trainers go to Anderson to provide snacks for the players on Friday night.

On Saturday morning some trainers are at Jervey to help other athletes, while a few are at the field, some are taping at the motel, and some are taping the players that didn't travel.

"During the actual game the students are involved in providing water and juice for the players," said Poole. "We also use air conditioners, fans, ice and towels to make sure that the players don't suffer any heat injuries. They also look for any possible injury situations. And on a home game we have a student trainer and manager who are responsible for giving the officials water during timeouts. But basically we deal primarily with the heat and injuries.

Four students go with the football squad to away games. Their job is multiplied on the road because of fewer fellow workers. "Our trainers have so many duties that it's almost impossible to write them down. They even count the number of players in the buses," commented Hoover.

In short, the trainers are one of the keys to the overall success of the Clemson athletic program. And the students are the backbone of the trainers. They deserve a special note of thanks for working those long, hard hours while keeping up with their school work.

Student trainers work at the game is just a small percentage of their work with the Clemson program.

Agriculture is undergoing its third revolution in less than a century.

The first revolution was mechanical and occurred in the 1920s, when farmers moved from using animal power to horsepower of the motorized kind. The second revolution, which began shortly after World War II, was chemical. From the 1950s through the early 1980s, a variety of chemical fertilizers, pesticides, herbicides and animal drugs were introduced that further increased agricultural productivity.

The third revolution, biotechnology, is beginning now, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Office of Technology Assessment says this new revolution may have effects "even more profound than those experienced from either the mechanical or chemical eras."

Biotechnology and genetic engineering reach across all sciences, and already have proven their importance in the medical field. For example, they have allowed researchers to produce an insulin that can be used by diabetics allergic to animal insulin. Interferon and interleukin, drugs for treating cancer, are produced through these methods.

The estimated annual market value of biotechnology products should move from $15 billion to $100 billion by the end of the century.

Predicted uses for biotechnology range from disposal of hazardous wastes like PCBs to increasing the amount of ethanol produced from fermenting grain. Scientists are using genetic engineering to produce plants more resistant to insects, diseases and adverse weather conditions. Reducing dependence on chemical pesticides also will help protect our environment and natural resources.

In recognition of the importance of biotechnology, Clemson University has included this area of study in its five-point Second Century plan, which outlines the University's areas of emphasis as it approaches its 100th birthday. In the past year, several events have occurred that have strengthened Clemson's entry into the field of biotechnology.

Clemson President Max Lennon says these events are "essential steps for Clemson that will greatly enhance our ability to provide leadership in exploring the possibilities and limitations of genetic engineering."

The events include:

—As a land-grant university with an agricultural research mission, Clemson has formed an Agri-Biotech Initiative to coordinate and guide its entry into agricultural biotech research.

—In June, Clemson signed a $607,000 contract with the Monsanto Co. to field test a genetically engineered soil microorganism. The purpose of the test is to develop a model system for monitoring the movement and survival of such organisms in the environment. Pending approval by the Environmental Protection Agency, Clemson plans to begin the field test this fall.

—The establishment last month of the prestigious Robert and Lois Coker Trustees Chair in Molecular Genetics will enhance the University's position in biotechnology by attracting a leading researcher and additional research support from industry. The Coker Trustees Chair will be established in the Division of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Clemson University researchers Horace Skipper, left, and Ellis Kline examine a petri dish containing a genetically engineered microorganism developed by the Monsanto Co. Clemson has received a $607,000 grant from Monsanto to field test the microorganism, which could offer a means of monitoring the effects of genetically engineered microorganisms in the environment.

Senior Spotlights

By Mickey Plyler

If David Treadwell is Mr. Clutch then David Spry is Mr. Reliable. Spry has been the snapper on Clemson's extra points, field goals, and punts over the last three seasons. In that time, Clemson has had only six busted plays in over 250 plays that Spry has initiated, including this year's game at Virginia Tech where the weather caused a couple of turnovers. This season will mark the fourth time that he has earned a letter. His snaps on several last-second victories are highlights of his career, but his biggest moment came as he was one of the Tigers that downed the punt against Georgia on their own one-yard line. He later snapped the ball on the game-winner that beat the Dawgs.

As a prepster, Spry was a two-year letterman in football and baseball at Lee County High School in Sanford, NC. There he was the team captain in both sports and was named all-area in football. On the diamond, he hit .400 his senior year while leading his team to the state semifinals.

Duane Walker has seen action in 28 games over his career at Tigertown. Walker's highlights include a 12-tackle performance at N.C. State last year and his first career interception this season in the Western Carolina game. He has recorded 46 tackles in his career that has seen him start three games. The senior from Forest Park, GA has played several positions for the Tigers including both linebacker spots and defensive end. This will mark the fourth year that he has lettered at Clemson.

Walker was a defensive standout at Forest Park High School. He was a three-year all-conference selection and the team most valuable player his senior season. That year he recorded 183 tackles. He was a seven-time letterwinner as a prepster including three each in football and track and one in baseball.

David Spry has been a reliable snapper for three years.

the last nine years. Chapman and Anderson have been teammates for that length of time at Clemson and Broome High School. The senior is Clemson's tallest (football) center in its history at 6-7. He has appeared in five games over the last two seasons including two this year. The Spartanburg native is one of the strongest members of the team as he ranks in the top 10 in both leg sled and power clean categories. This marks the second straight home game that Chapman has been a captain.

At Broome, Chapman was an all-conference performer in football and track. He and Anderson were 21-5 over their last two seasons and also teamed together in the 1982 Shrine Bowl. His senior campaign was also recognized when he received all-state honors. In track, Chapman specialized in the throwing events and was honored as the conference's best. Robbie is majoring in industrial education.

Bruce England was the only active 1987 tailback to carry the ball in a game prior to this year. The senior from Greenville, SC, has been a reliable reserve. His play on the scout team in practice gets the Tiger defense ready to perform in the manner that has made them one of the best in the land. His hard work has earned him playing time in five games to date including the Wake Forest game where he carried the ball twice. He played in this year's opener against Western Carolina, Georgia Tech, and Wake Forest. England is a reserve behind fullbacks Tracy Johnson and Chris Lancaster but has also played tailback. His 4.66 speed in the 40 is the fastest of all of the fullbacks.

England starred at J.L. Mann High School in Greenville. There he was the team Most Valuable player and freshman Athlete-of-the-Year. He also ran track in high school as he participated in several events.

Clay Gilstrap is a member of Clemson's fine special teams as a bandit end. He is a part of the punt return team that has sprung Donnell Woolford loose for two touchdowns this year. He has also been a big part of the kickoff return team that is among the nation's best again this year. At bandit, he has seen action in 12 games in his career including two in this his senior year. The Smyrna, GA native won the Carlon Box Walk-on award last spring for his defensive efforts. He was the only walk-on defensive lineman to letter in 1986 and will earn his second letter this year.

Gilstrap earned three letters in football at Campbell High School in Smyrna. His senior year was highlighted by his selection as the team Most Valuable Player and to the all-county team.

Senter Vitale Associates Presents
Carl W. Regutti's

"Supreme Confidence"

Cast in Fine Pewter

Actual Size

Carl W. Regutti, master wildlife sculptor, has captured the regal dignity of the majestic Asian Tiger in this piece entitled "Supreme Confidence". Cast in fine pewter by Lance Corporation, America's premier pewter foundry, this 8" museum quality artpiece uniquely reflects the personality of the Tiger at rest.

Senter Vitale Fine Art now makes this piece available to the public for just $95.00. This is an exceptional value for a work of art by one of America's true sculpting masters. Mr. Regutti's works grace some of the most prestigious private collections in America and his most recent masterpiece, the ARISTIDES monument, now stands permanently in the paddock of Churchill Downs.

In addition to the pewter edition, a signed and numbered limited edition of 500 of this same work in bronze is available for $350.00.

To reserve either piece, return the completed form, along with check or money order promptly.

Tiger Life

For the past 53 years thousands of you have displayed your unsurpassed loyalty to Clemson by making IPTAY one of the greatest athletic scholarship groups in America.

Now there are some individuals who want to make another unique effort for Clemson by providing an endowment to assure the future security and success of the Clemson Athletic Department.

Tiger Life is a program through which you can make an affordable investment over a few years to insure a sizable future gift to the Clemson Athletic Department.

Listed below are a few individuals who with a few others who wish to remain anonymous have arranged for gifts in excess of $2,000,000 to the Clemson Athletic Department Endowment.

Mark S. Avent
Michael S. Branham
Donald J. Coggins
Daniel H. Coker, Jr.
Rebecca D. Coker
Mr. and Mrs. R. Allison Dalton
Rodney C. Foster
Jimmy K. Gerral
Mr. and Mrs. Elbert L. Henderson
Landrum H. Henderson
Mr. and Mrs. Timothy H. Hester
Mr. and Mrs. T. Carroll Holcombe
Mrs. J. William Holcombe
Mr. and Mrs. Terry M. Horne
Daniel E. Hunt
Deana G. Lynch
Terri D. Lynch
Thomas C. Lynch, III
Charles D. Miller

James B. Prince
Kevin H. Prince
Robert W. Robinson
Mr. and Mrs. Sam White

If you think you would like to consider this unique opportunity you may call Bert Henderson or Allison Dalton at (803) 656-2101 or write either of them at P.O. Box 31, Clemson, SC 29633.

This is a good opportunity to do something for Clemson that will make a big difference forever.

Spirit Blitz

By Willie Shearer

One of Clemson's newest rites of fall is fast taking its place on the list of Tiger football traditions. The event is Spirit Blitz, the annual exercise of early November at Death Valley where Clemson gets to show off its tremendous spirit — as the official purpose of the inaugural event read, "To express to the world Clemson University's sincere desire to be the best in all aspects — in academics, athletics, and undying love for our university."

Today's event is called "Pawpulation Celebration," and it promises to make Spirit Blitz bigger and better than ever. Clemson's student booster group, Central Spirit, led by this year's Spirit Blitz coordinators Andrea Hucks, Mike Ikeler, and Al Cothran, has planned several promotions and activities all based on Clemson's unmistakable trademark, the Tiger Paw, and designed to canvas the campus with the tiger print.

The most noticeable promotion at the stadium today is probably the megaphone giveaway. In order to help the Tiger faithful show their spirit much more effectively, there are 80,000 megaphones (sponsored by Amoco Oil Company and WFBC-FM radio) being given away in Death Valley today.

In addition, Tiger Paws have been placed on the fences surrounding the stadium and painted in every dorm room on the Clemson campus, which probably makes for an all-time record for Tiger Paws on the campus at a specific time. Central Spirit has also hung Tiger Paw banners from the light posts at the four corners of the stadium.

In other promotions, there are orange and white flashcards in the stadium today that will form a giant Tiger Paw. And, of course, there will be the traditional release of balloons, without which it just wouldn't be Spirit Blitz. Central Spirit has also hung balloons on the fence around the stadium.

At halftime, Bud Light celebrity Spuds McKenzie will make his third Clemson appearance of the weekend, after having already been at the Friday night pep rally and the Tiger Tailgate Show before the game.

This is all the culmination of a spirited week that included promotion at the volleyball match Tuesday night and the exhibition basketball game against Athletics in Action Wednesday night.

The 1987 version of Spirit Blitz is the fifth annual event of this kind at Clemson, but it wasn't called Spirit Blitz at first. The first

November gala event was that memorable world record setting balloon release (363,729 balloons) on November 12, 1983, when the student government planned what was called "Rising Above."

Student government leaders Mark Wilson, David Stalnaker, and Keith Stancill spawned the idea together early in the 1983 season, then approached IPTAY and the athletic department about bringing it to fruition. With the help of over half of the on-campus student population and the overall family spirit of Clemson University, Rising Above was a rousing success, and it demanded a sequel.

It also demanded a name, but it wasn't until September 1984 that it got the tag "Spirit Blitz." That year was the great flashcard game, where everyone in the stadium had a flashcard that helped to spell out, "Clemson—A National Tradition."

That year's Spirit Blitz executive director, Mike Hamilton, recalls that there was a need for an event like Rising Above to develop into an annual project. "When we did Rising Above," Mike recalls, "we felt like there was a great need for a spirit event that involved the whole Clemson family, something more than First Friday and Homecoming, which are really student-oriented events. With Rising Above we found an event that involved all Clemson people, and we thought of Spirit Blitz to keep it going. It's something we could all be involved in at one time or another during the weekend, and could be proud of, too."

In 1985, the Spirit Blitz program moved from student government to the auspices of Central Spirit. That year Clemson put on the "world's largest pep rally," including a shaker display and an appearance by the Anheuser-Busch Clydesdales.

And last year, Central Spirit and the Spirit Blitz committee gave us "Orange Day USA," a grand event that used 80,000 orange shakers and an 80-yard Tiger Paw flag. It was an awesome event that helped solidify Spirit Blitz as a unique Tiger tradition, and one that brings excitement to the final phase of the home football season.

Pawpulation Celebration stacks up with the four previous spectacles in a great way, and it should be a fantastic way to further implant Spirit Blitz among the great Clemson traditions.

Spirit Blitz in 1983 was highlighted by a world record balloon launch.

Bengal Babes

By Sheri West

Their mission: to recruit champions for Clemson.

This is the goal of the girls in the blue and white outfits; the ones you see on the sidelines before Tiger home football games. They are the Bengal Babes — Clemson's football ambassadors.

On game day they are a recruit's primary contact with the university and football program because the coaches simply don't have time to do much more than say a quick "Welcome to Clemson." It is these girls who conduct a tour of the athletic department and escort the recruit and his family to the stadium.

Most importantly, though, they provide information — about football, the history of the school, various courses of study, and other aspects of Clemson University. Their job is "listening to what the youngster and his parents are interested in, discerning what else is important to him besides football, and showing him what Clemson has to offer in that area," says Assistant Athletic Director Clyde Wrenn, who is in charge of football recruiting. "The girls have to do research and find out this information, then relay it to the youngster and his parents."

Five girls are assigned to each of the 11 coaches involved with recruiting. The girls know before the day of the game which prospects will be visiting. They are responsible for discovering the interests of each recruit and what he intends to study.

No one filled this role when Wrenn first came to Clemson in the early 1970's. It was he who started the Bengal Babes by asking two co-eds for assistance on football weekends. They agreed to help and invited some of their friends to join them. The first Bengal Babes — a group of 15 girls — worked the Spring Game in 1973.

Over the years the group has grown and some changes have occurred. During the summer, some of the girls corresponded with other schools gathering information about their recruiting hostesses, then developed ways to improve the group at Clemson. They compiled informational notebooks for the girls. These include a detailed outline of their responsibilities and facts about the coaches, athletic staff, the strength training program, and academic requirements for athletes.

The young women are instructed to study this information so they will be prepared to field questions from the recruits and their families. The matching blue and white outfits are also new this year. Many felt it was important for the girls to be recognized as an organization. "What we want is to be a first class group. We feel our football team is one of the best in the nation, our facilities are the best, so we should have the best group of girls, too."

Ann Harris came on board as an advisor to the group and has been a big asset. "The women need a female to relate to and I'm involved in so many things that I can't always spend the time that is needed, said Wrenn. "She's done a great job." Although

Harris has only been working with the group for a short time, she has been very impressed thus far. "They don't get the recognition they deserve. Everyone knows about the cheerleaders and the band, but people just don't know about the Bengal Babes. They are a vital part of the football program at Clemson."

In addition to recruiting, the girls are a spirit committee for the football team. They decorate bulletin boards in Mauldin Hall and the dining hall, make signs and posters for game day, and send birthday and get-well cards to the players.

Earlier this season the girls made arrangements for six players to visit the Shriners Crippled Children's Hospital in Greenville. They recruited top-line players like Michael Dean Perry, John Phillips, David Treadwell, Donnell Woolford, Tracy Johnson, and Dan Pearman as the player representatives, and it was an event that did a lot of good for both the children and the players.

With 55 girls in the group there isn't a single set of adjectives that will adequately describe every one. However, there is one thing they all have in common — "the desire to be involved and to contribute to something they believe in, that's worthwhile, and enjoyable," said Wrenn.

The Bengal Babes work hard, but it pays off, both for Clemson, and for the young ladies. The experience of meeting people improves the girls' communication skills and poise. They are allowed to use the athletic tutoring system and have the opportunity to travel to an away game and a bowl game.

The girls feel a great deal of personal satisfaction also comes with being a Bengal Babe. "When you're at the game and you see the guy you introduced to Clemson on the field making an interception or a big play, it's all worthwhile," said Lynn Stuphen.

The girls staff is very proud of what the girls have accomplished. "We feel like the benefits they receive are nothing compared to what they do for us," said Wrenn. "They are the group that sells Clemson University to our prospects."

"Three weeks ago we had 35 recruits on campus. The Bengal Babes take so much pressure off me and the rest of the coaches on game day. It's a good feeling to trust and believe in the people you have working with you."

Clemson's Bengal Babes allow Danny Ford and his staff to spend more time in preparation for Saturday's opponent.

Tiger Band

By Annabelle Vaughan

On the Friday before the Wake Forest game, a contingent of Tiger Band members gathered in the lobby of Jervey Athletic Center and serenaded the entire Athletic Department with "Tiger Rag." The halls rang with music as the small group marched through, making sure everyone was in the right spirit for Saturday's game.

Throughout the year, Tiger Band makes sure that everyone has that Clemson spirit. Today is Spirit Blitz and although it is sponsored by Central Spirit, no Spirit Blitz would be complete without the "Band That Shakes the Southland" — TIGER BAND! Today, Tiger Band salutes some of its most important members, the seniors. These students have put in countless hours throughout their years at Clemson to make Clemson one of the most spirited places in the world.

This year's Spirit Blitz theme is "Pawpulation Celebration." Before the game, the entire "pawpulation" of Death Valley will receive a megaphone, sponsored by Amoco Oil Company and WFBC-FM. Paws will be everywhere, as Central Spirit tries to cover the campus with the Clemson trademark.

The spirit is contagious when Tiger Band begins the day's festivities with their traditional pregame show. Fans will remember the excitement of the National Championship with the opening "Sock It To 'Em" followed by the Orange Bowl March. Then, they will play what may be the most spirited song in the nation — "Tiger Rag."

Today's guest-of-honor dotting the "i" in Tigers will be the Mark Biering, the band commander. Biering, an Industrial Engineering major from Charleston, SC will represent all of Tiger Band's seniors today.

Tiger Band will help stir that patriotic spirit next, as it continues the pregame show by offering its rendition of "You're A Grand Ole Flag," and "America the Beautiful," directed by Dr. Richard E. Goodstein and accompanied by the Clemson University Chorus. Dr. Bruce Cook will then lead Tiger Band with its rousing rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner," while an ensemble from Pershing Rifles Company C-4 presents our state and national colors. Both colors and band will lead thousands of proud Tigers in the Clemson University Alma Mater.

The invocation will be offered by Jeff Clayton, of Fort Hill Presbyterian Church's campus ministry.

Today's halftime show, arranged by Pat Dye, is dedicated to all Tiger Band Seniors. The show opens with a pair of songs made famous by the Beach Boys — "Fun, Fun, Fun" and "Wipe Out." Then, the band will offer a favorite of fraternities everywhere, The Kingsmen's "Louie, Louie" followed by the Beatles ever popular, "Twist and Shout." The band will then continue with Dye's arrangements of "Tequila" and "Shout", made famous by Otis Day and the Knights.

And of course, no halftime would be complete unless it ended with the traditional University Fight Song, arranged by Paul Yoder — "The Song That Shakes the Southland," — TIGER RAG!!!

The 1987 Tiger Band seniors include: Mamye Alexander, Harold Barnette, Mark Biering, Jeff Boatman, Beth Byars, Sandy Christmus, Tracey Clark, Carol Cochran, Tony Culbertson, Laura Davis, Marie Davis, Natalie Decker, Barney Derrick, James Pills, Amy Erickson, Cynthia Farcelli, Jerry Greenhill, James Grubb, David Haselden, Diane Hastings, Kevin Hawkins, Robin Heinkin, Chris Hurlbaas, Douglas Key, David Lewis, Steve Lothridge, Edward Lotts, Barbara Lustig, Chris Lynch, Mamie Malphrus, Debbie McFall, Scott McMillian, Jennifer McNair, Jerry Moody, Allen Naught, James Nicholson, Belinda Oglesby, Rhoda Redding, and Clay Shackelford.

Gerald Moody, one of the self-described "mouths of the band," expressed his feelings on what Tiger Band has meant to him during his years at Clemson. "Tiger Band is like an extended family," he said. "The alumni band members come back, and even if we have never met before, we are instantly friends. Tiger Band is definitely a tie that binds."

"Being last year's commander gave me the closest group of friends I have ever had," said James Grubb. "I don't want to leave because I love it so much. At least I know it is something I can always come back to."

This will be the final performance in Death Valley for Clemson's seniors.

The Last Word

by Bob Bradley

Some football fans like to see hard-nosed defensive football. Others like a velvet-smooth run by a sleek tailback.

If one was lucky enough to be one of the 51,376 on hand at Byrd Stadium November 18, 1978, there was enough offense and defense to go around.

Maryland and Clemson were going for the Atlantic Coast Conference championship. The Tigers were 9-1 overall going into the contest, the Terps were 9-1. Each team was 5-0 in the conference and each was going to be invited to a post-season bowl, but a win would enhance that team's choice of bowls.

There was little to draw on by comparing the five ACC victories that each team had accomplished. Clemson's combined margin over conference opponents was 108 points and Maryland's was 101 ... not enough to get excited about. The Terps held a national ranking of 11th and the Tigers were right behind at 12th.

Clemson would later have a record-breaking 10 players named to the All-ACC team and Maryland had four representatives. Ten Tigers off that team are still playing pro football today and in the 1978 team picture, there are six first-round draft choices.

Maryland also had its share of standout players, one of the most notable being linebacker Neil Olkewicz, who is still playing with the Washington Redskins.

The game matched the two leading rushers in the ACC — Lester Brown of Clemson and Steve Atkins of Maryland ... also the league's top two passers in the Tigers' Steve Fuller and the Terps' Tim O'Hare ... also the two top receivers in the conference in Clemson's Jerry Butler and Maryland's Dean Richards.

This was to be a 'blue ribbon special' that, even to this day, would have few rivals. If a vote was taken on the most exciting football games in ACC history, this one would have to be in the Top Five, and could even be Number-One.

Clemson fans were ready for it. Six charter airplanes were put to use and hundreds more went by other means of transportation. Originally, 2,000 tickets were sent to Clemson, but after several re-orders, the total built to 3,094. Another 6,000 came to Littlejohn Coliseum to see the game on a big screen TV. Fans in the coliseum got to cheer twice on many plays because of instant replay. And those who were there said the second cheers were louder than the first because they knew what was coming.

Clemson had to come from behind three times to tie each time before going ahead to stay in the fourth quarter.

In the first five possessions by both teams, three by Clemson and two by Maryland, the Tigers owned the only first down. There had been nine plays out of 23 where the runner or punt returner was thrown for a loss, or a pass fell incomplete.

Finally, Maryland scored on a 12-play, 61-yard drive with 47 seconds left in the first period.

Steve Fuller led Clemson on its first second-quarter possession for 80 yards and 12 plays, scoring himself from one yard out.

There were only 22 seconds left in the first half when David Sims had a punt blocked by Olkewicz and Mike Carney fell on it in the end zone for a Terp touchdown. The Tigers had called a timeout two plays before, or possibly the clock would have run out.

Probably no other ACC game in history has produced three of the most electrifying plays in a space of 248 seconds, but that was the offensive spurt in the second half that transpired at one point.

Clemson got possession at its own two after a punt. Three plays produced a first down at the 13. And then Fuller split the Maryland secondary and connected with Jerry Butler over the middle who raced 65 more yards on a play covering 87 to tie the score.

Butler scored on an 87-yard TD pass that helped Clemson to an ACC title clinching game against Maryland in 1978.

Maryland fullback Steve Atkins turned from goat to hero in a matter of two plays. After fumbling the ensuing kickoff out of bounds at the three, Atkins gained a yard then caused a two-yard penalty on an illegal procedure.

On the next play, the burly senior took the handoff, was hit twice behind the line of scrimmage, then broke into the clear and outraced the entire Clemson team 98 yards to score. Today, that is still the longest scoring run from scrimmage in the ACC.

It was Clemson's time again on the next kickoff. Fuller and Marvin Sims had brought the ball out to the Tiger 38 from the 11 where a third-and-nine faced the Tigers. This time Fuller found Dwight Clark open and connected on a 62-yard scoring pass, thus bringing Clemson even again at 21-all.

Sounds like a lot of offense. There had also been 11 punts by both teams in the first three quarters. In the first four minutes of the final quarter, there were three more punts. After one, the Tigers got possession at their own 30 and Fuller directed a 10-play, 70-yard drive, using only one nine-yard pass in the drive. Lester Brown went the final five yards to give Clemson its first lead, 28-21, with 7:30 left to play.

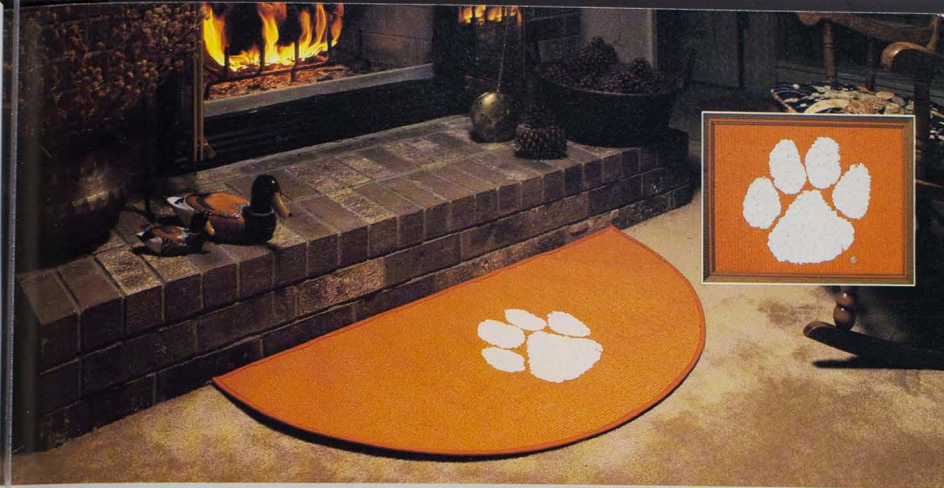

Maryland put on a drive going deep in Clemson territory. The Tigers intercepted O'Hare at the 36, but were called for interference. Maryland faced a third-and-six at the Tiger seven when the halfback pass was called. But, Bubba Brown smothered Dean Richards for an 11-yard loss and Ed Loncar came in to kick a 35-yard field goal that trimmed the lead to four.

Maryland tried the short kickoff, but Chuck Rose covered for Clemson and the Tigers killed the last two minutes by making one first down on a 10-yard run by Harold Goggins, taking two delay penalties and by Fuller falling on the ball three times.

The Greenville-Spartanburg Airport has greeted many dignitaries, but none received a reception like the Tigers did that night on their return from College Park. An estimated 6,000 fans, which backed up cars from the airport terminal to I-85, met the ACC champions on their return. This prompted the airport commission to ask that future arrival times of the Clemson team not be announced on radio.

Clemson went on to defeat Ohio State in the Gator Bowl while Maryland lost to Texas in the Sun Bowl.

Terp coach Jerry Claiborne summed the game up quite aptly: "It was a tremendous game for a championship game." And there might not ever be another one like it.
